BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 511 (Senate No. 155), entitled

An Act making an appropriation to the commission appointed pursuant to a concurrent resolution of the seventeenth day of June one thousand nine hundred fifteen for the purpose of investigating the system of recording deeds mortgages and so forth

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. PERRY. Mr. Speaker, I move you that further consideration of this bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. MEARKLE. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

Mr. PERRY. Mr. Speaker, my reason for asking for postponement is in order to get an explanation from the gentleman representing the sponsor of this bill.

Mr. COX. Mr. Speaker, I am perfectly familiar with this bill. This commission was appointed at the last session of the Legislature. Inadvertently the appropriation was not made then that the bill provided for when it was passed. This Legislature naturally supposed it was included in the other appropriation bills of that session. This only covers an error made in that session.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

Shall the bill pass finally?

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WHITAKER. Mr. Speaker, This is the bill which was among a series of repealers on the calendar two weeks ago. It was postponed at that time at the request of the gentleman from Lackawanna, who then desired an opportunity to examine it more carefully, and it was postponed at that time in order to give him that opportunity. He now states that he has examined it and that he is entirely satisfied with it.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. WALTER. Mr. Speaker, I will request the gentleman from Philadelphia, who introduced this bill, to explain its provisions.

Mr. HECHT. Mr. Speaker, very briefly I want to say that this bill simply increases the number of members of the Board of Recreation from five to seven, because the present Board has had too much work to do and they serve without pay.

On the question,

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. WALTERS. Mr. Speaker, I should like very much if some member of the House would give some reason why the Act of 1915 should be repealed. The act of 1915, as I remember it, makes reasonable regulations relative to the disposition of dockets of aldermen and justices of the peace, and I hope very much that some member of the House will be able to tell us why it should be repealed. In order to give some one an opportunity to do that, I move that further consideration of the bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. DELL. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. SIGGINS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the sponsor of this bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Stadtlander, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. STADTLANDER. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. SIGGINS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to inquire as to how this bill changes the law, I think, of 1905, known as the bulk sales law. Does that increase—to be specific, does it increase the restrictions or make them more lax?

Mr. STADTLANDER. Mr. Speaker, it increases the restrictions and places upon the vendee the duty of setting out the terms of the sale and also requires a form of affidavit not required in the Act of 1905.

Mr. SIGGINS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to further interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. STADTLANDER. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. SIGGINS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to inquire as to whether this act requires the vendee to see that the purchase money is properly applied.

Mr. STADTLANDER. Mr. Speaker, I would refer the gentleman to section 3, line 23, as follows: "without paying or seeing to it that the purchase money of said property is applied to the payment of the bonafide claim of the creditors of the vendor."

Mr. WALTERS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny allow himself to be interrogated?

Mr. STADTLANDER. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. WALTERS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask if section 3 does not make a trustee out of the vendee and whether he would not under the provisions of this bill be subject to account in equity or at law for the proceeds of the purchase money—in other words, that he would be put in the position of an assignee for the benefit of the creditors.

Mr. STADTLANDER. Mr. Speaker, he merely looks to it to the extent that the purchasing money is properly applied.

Mr. WALTERS. Mr. Speaker, the bulk sales act of 1905 is in many respects a very beneficial act. It is similar to the New York act and has been sustained by our appellate courts on the reasoning of the New York courts. To add this complication to it might destroy the effect of it. If you go and buy out a man in financial failing circumstances, you have to see to the application of the purchase money pro rata. In other words, you perform the duties of an auditor appointed by the court to distribute the funds of the insolvent estate. It is all right to prevent property being made away with and creditors cheated, but this puts such a fetter on it that it is a great question whether or not it would not be an error to cloud a business community by an act of this kind. Every man who buys a stock of this sort would become a trustee and would have to make this distribution, there being no method pointed in the act how he could be relieved from that responsibility. He would have to see that it would go pro rata. Now, gentlemen, if you want to inflict that upon a community it is all well and good, but it is well to see the effect of it before you vote for it.

Less than the majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the negative and the bill falls.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 274, entitled

An Act requiring State county and local fair associations to provide on the grounds used for fair or exhibition purposes a sufficient number of public comfort stations or toilets requiring the same to be kept in a sanitary condition and providing penalities for violation of this act

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. STERN. Mr. Speaker, I would like the sponsor of this bill to explain its purposes.

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. ROSS. Mr. Speaker, I move that the further consideration of this bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. STERN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The SPEAKER (Richard J. Baldwin) in the Chair.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreebly to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 308, entitled

An Act to amend section one of an act approved the twenty-second day of April, one thousand nine hundred thirteen entitled "An Act to provide for necessary medical attention to indigent persons who may be assumed to be in danger of suffering from hydrophobia, or rabies, after having been bitten by an animal believed to be suffering therefrom; repealing all prior acts relating hereunto; and providing for the payment of expenses for such treatment heretofore incurred in good faith," by providing for payment of expenses for treatment of all persons bitten by dogs by the county from the fund collected from the taxation of dogs.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. Speaker, on general principles I would favor this bill, but it seems to me that there is an error in a statement which the sponsor of this bill would probably not want interpolated therein. The bill provides that anybody suffering from hydrophobia shall apply to any reputable physician and shall obtain treatment, and then it further provides that the expense thereof shall be paid by the county commissioners upon the filing of a duly itemized voucher under oath. The county commissioners would therefore have no discretion in the matter whatsoever upon the filing of that oath. The county commissioners would be compelled to pay that bill no matter what that bill might be, whether it would be ten dollars, a hundred dollars, or a thousand dollars. I do not think the sponsor of the bill intended that it be put in that way, and for this reason I am opposed to the bill as it stands. I would like to vote for the bill if it would be properly worded.

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, this bill is what you might term a humane bill. As the law now stands, if any mad dog bites your hog or sheep or cow or ox or any animal outside of a human being, the law provides that the person who owns the animal shall be recompensed for that loss, but when a human being comes in contact with a mad dog, whether he be threatened with hydrophobia or not, there is no redress. If you will pardon me I will refer to just one incident that occurred in our county in the past few months. Three children were bitten by a mad dog in Mahoning Township, in Armstrong County. They were taken by their father to Pittsburgh for the Pasteur treatment at the Mercy Hospital, but on account of the father not being able to guarantee payment for the treatment, these three children were peddled around in the City of Pittsburgh for two days,—one bitten through the nose and one through the cheek,—that condition existing until this man found some one who would go his security so these children could be admitted to the hospital and payment for this treatment guaranteed. So I say to you it is a humane proposition whether the language of it is correct or not, whether we ought to say that a doctor out in the rural district should treat a case of that kind for ten dollars of three dollars or two dollars, or whether it is better to send them to Pittsburgh or Philadelphia or wherever they have that Pasteur treatment, and have it cost two hundred dollars. It is a matter of mathematics and not a matter of argument. I believe and have faith in any reputable physician of this State to give a correctly itemized bill, and I say, gentlemen, there will be no measure come before this House during this session that has as much humane matter connected with it as the passage of this bill, so that anybody—a human being—will have the same right to a treatment as the dumb brutes of the field, and I ask the members of this House to support it.

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Armstrong, Mr. Milliron.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Armstrong, Mr. Milliron, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. Speaker, I should like to ask the gentleman from Armstrong if there is any discretion in the hands of the commissioners to refuse any bill whatsoever that might be handed in by any doctor, no matter how high it may be?

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, no; I don't believe that there is any discretion on the part of the commissioners in our county or I presume in any other county, where there is a medical society, the physicians have established fees the same as the attorneys. There is not anything in the laws that give the county commissioners any discretion with regard to a fee from an attorney or any official that performs any function, so I don't believe that we ought to pick out the doctors and make them a mark in this case.

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to further ask the gentleman: If that bill would be exorbitant would it be right and fair for the commissioners to pay it?

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, the commissioners in our county are such men that usually use very good judgment as to whether a bill is axorbitant or not. The discretion is implied in their office; their oath backs them up. I don't see that there could be any greater safeguard that we can put around this than we have here for the protection of the child. In addition to that, Mr. Speaker, I want to say that this specifies money paid out of the sheep fund. In my own county that amounts to thousands of dollars. I believe that, because I was talking to some gentlemen today, I don't recall from what county, in which they collect some sixteen to seventeen thousands of dollars of dog tax which is not needed in that fund as the amount of sheep that were killed amounted to a little less than five hundred dollars.. There is always a sufficient fund to pay that. The commissioners, as far as I have had any dealings with them, I am willing to trust.

Mr. WALTER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Armstrong if he would consent to the insertion of the word "reasonable" before the word "expenses" in the eleventh line? I have known men in my profession to render exorbitant bills.

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, I will gladly consent to putting that in.

Mr. WALTER. Mr. Speaker, I move that further consideration of this bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. STOFFLET. Mr. Speaker, It seems to me that it is a question here for the county controllers. If a bill is exorbitant the county controller has the power to refuse to pay it, and if he cannot come to a reasonable agreement with the doctor then it is a matter for the courts to decide.

Mr. BEYER. Mr. Speaker, I might suggest that the discretion of the county commissioner in matters of this kind are the same as in many other matters referred to them for their consideration and to add the word "reasonable" does not answer the question, because if the county commissioners want to pass upon the question as to what is reasonable or not, they may consider an extravagant fee equally as reasonable as one that might not be extravagant. I think we may safely leave the discretion where this bill places it, in the hands of the county commissioners, and I think that if a bill is presented to the county commissioners which they believe to be unreasonable that they won't pay it and the result would be that a law suit follows and a court and jury will be asked to pass upon the bill presented, and decide whether it is a fair return for the service rendered, for that particular case. I take it for granted that hydrophobia is not a matter of daily occurence, but there may be exceptions to the rule, perhaps one out of a thousand in the period of a year, and inasmuch as the money is drawn from the fund for the taxation of dogs, I cannot see why there should be any objection on the appropriation of it which may be made by the county commissioners. They are responsible in their respective counties for the manner in which they use it and they will exercise discretion on these bills in the same manner. They must answer for it and use their discretionary power. I shall, therefore, vote for the bill as it stands and I trust that it will pass.

Mr. CANON. Mr. Speaker, This fund is not large enough now to pay the damage for the killing of sheep. It has always been considered that the tax upon dogs was for a special purpose, and the question is whether it should be payable out of the general fund of the county as it is now paid. It seems to me this phase of the bill, selecting this particular dog tax just now is wrong, and in my judgment it should not be paid out of that fund—raised out of the taxation of dogs. That fund in my own county is already too small to pay the damages that result in the killing of sheep by dogs. Therefore, it is not right that it should be paid out of the dog tax but out of the general fund in the county.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

RESOLUTION GRANTING USE OF THE HALL OF THE HOUSE FOR MEMORIAL SERVICES FOR THE LATE HON. CHARLES J. RONEY, JR.

Mr. FLYNN asked and obtained unanimous consent to offer the following resolution, which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

Resolved, That the use of the House be granted to a committee of the House to hold memorial services in honor of the late Charles J. Roney, Jr., on Tuesday evening, March 13th, at 8 o'clock.

The SPEAKER. I would like to call the attention of the House to the fact that with the number of bills on the calendar I think they can be disposed of tomorrow and the Chair will be glad to entertain a motion for adjournment until 11 o'clock tomorrow morning. It will give the members an opportunity to do some committee work in the morning and also give the printer an opportunity to get his work out and have it on the files, and I do not think we will lose any time by adjourning now until tomorrow morning.

I would like to call the attention of the House to the fact that we have now taken a week's recess—some of us, while other members, the Appropriation Commitee, has been working hard all week. Now, I hope the Chair will not have to enforce Rule 48, but unless there is a better attendance than there has been in the past the Chair will feel disposed to enforce that rule. There is, as you know, considerable important legislation to be acted upon some time before this House adjourns, in the matter of revenues and in the matter of appropriations, and if they get proper consideration it is a prety large task. There are a number of members that I notice are willing to stay and work. I notice some of the members, however, have perhaps been called home by important business. It is the wish of the Chair that they defer the important business and give a little more time to seeing if we cannot get through with the little more than a thousand bills that have been presented for our consideration.

ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. BEYER. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House do now adjourn until tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock.

The motion was agreed to and (at 11:15 P. M.) the House adjourned until tomorrow morning at 11:00 o'clock.

Session 1917 — 122nd of the General Assembly

VOL. 4. HARRISBURG, PA., TUESDAY, MARCH 13, 1917. No. 22.

SENATE.

TUESDAY, March 13, 1917.

The Senate met at 11 o'clock A. M.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Frank B. McClain) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Rev. M. D. Lichliter offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, Thou who hast led us as a state and nation in the past, we still look to Thee for our guidance. May the members of this Senate catch the inspiration of our great and matchless history written large by Divine purpose that they may more clearly see the path of duty. Bless us all as we gather in our several stations in life and in our several duties and grant that in all we do the thought of God may direct us and be our controlling motive. We ask through Christ's name. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED.

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present, the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. HOMSHER, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

PETITIONS.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate resumed the consideration of Senate Bill No. 201, entitled

An Act authorizing cities boroughs and towns to lease electric light heat and power plants and water works plants and systems providing for the operation thereof and the establishment of rates

And said bill having been read at length the third time and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. C. A. SNYDER. Mr. President, I desire to say to the members of the Senate that this an enabling bill on the part of the owners of a water company that I have in mind particularly, who may desire to lease their plants to a municipality for a number of years. While under the law there is a provision now that water companies, or any public service corporation, may lease to a city, or to a borough, their plant for a definite term of years, courts have decided there is some question as to some operation under the law. This bill has been drawn in accordance with the ordinances of several cities in this Commonwealth requiring the regulation of service corporations in their cities, and to comply with the ordinances and the law, we thought it wise, in order to get plants that may desire to lease their service corporations to a city in such a position that they could operate, or negotiate the agreement satisfactorily, and come within the law. It does not in any way conflict with the rights of any individual and it simply facilitates operation on the part of the city that desires to either lease a water plant, or an electric light plant, or a gas plant, from private corporations because they have not sufficient money to establish one of their own, and it is not in any way prejudicial to public policy. I desire to ask every Senator to vote for this bill.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—27.

Restrain our lips from speaking Thy name without reverence and for selfish, mercenary purposes only.

Protect us from presumptuous, self-assumed piety, and may we ever be close to Thy side.

May we have pure hearts so that we shall see God with uninterrupted vision, and ever be imbued with the more excellent spirit.

Preserve our lives unspotted that the light of Thy holiness may shine in us.

Grant all these favors and blessings, making us realize that what we are is God's gift to us, and what we make of ourselves is our gift to God.

RESOLUTION WITH RESPECT TO THE DEATH OF HONORABLE HENRY HOUCK.

Mr. MEARKLE offered the following resolution which was twice read as follows:

I move that this House do now adjourn until to-morrow morning at ten o'clock out of respect to the death of the Hon. Henry Houck, Secretary of Internal Affairs, one of the most beloved, diligent and conscientious public officials of our State.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, In rising to second this resolution I feel that if we adopt it we are paying our respects to one of the best public men that Pennsylvania has ever had. His name is a household word in every township in the State of Pennsylvania. He has given his life's service either to local government or to our great State government. During his life service in serving the public there has never been a breath uttered against his good name for any of his public actions. I know that it is the regret not only of the members of this body but the regret of the citizenship of this great State that we have lost the services of one of the most valued and respected citizens that has ever been elected to public office.

I therefore, Mr. Speaker, desire to second the resolution offered by my friend from Allegheny, Mr. Mearkle.

The resolution was adopted by a unanimous rising vote.

SENATE.

PRAYER.

The Rev. M. D. Lichliter offered the following prayer:

Our Lord and our God, with whom there is neither variableness nor shadow of turning, Thou art the same yesterday, to-day and forever. We are again reminded through Thy Providence in the removal of a member of this Senate that there is a certainty of death, and an uncertainty of life. We are reminded that in Thy hands are the reins of life and death. Thou dost give and Thou dost take away. Help us to bow submissively to Thy will. May we in our latter end hear the salutation of the Master, "Well done Thou good and faithful servant. Enter thou into the joys of Our Lord." Comfort the immediate family of the deceased and assuage their grief. Death indeed loves a shining mark. As a state we mourn the Apostle of Sunshine. We thank Thee for his great life, his useful career, for his renowned virtues and for his beautiful and lovable spirit. Help us to emulate his virtues. We ask in Jesus name. Amen.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF DEATH OF HONORABLE CHARLES J. MAGEE.

Mr. KLINE. Mr. President, I rise at this time, at one of the saddest moments of my life, to pay a short tribute of respect to my dear friend, the late Charles J. Magee, who has now passed to the great beyond. God in His infinite wisdom has deemed it wise to take from our midst our dear friend and colleague, Charlie Magee. We sometimes hesitate and wonder why those who are of such great and vast benefit to the people, to the great organized society to which we belong, are taken away, when so many who are of no benefit whatever remain. No longer shall we hear the voice of this dear boy in the halls of this great body speaking in the interest and behalf of suffering humanity, speaking in the interest and behalf of those things that tend to a greater and grander day for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. To-day among us he is numbered among the dead, but I am glad to say that his good acts and deeds shall live throughout the countless ages, because if there was any boy who believed in the true principles of the foundation upon which all true fraternity is founded, it was he; for he believed in the brotherhood of man and the fatherhood of God; true fraternity, which is the sweetest flower that buds, blossoms and sheds its perfume in the garden of the human heart. And what a beautiful theme it is, as he lived up to it so beautifully, brotherly love, and which was so keenly appreciated by all who knew him in this body, and especially those who were more closely associated with him. We all remember this beautiful thought, that the mornings are the rapturous thoughts of God and the evenings are His glorious dreams. The sun and the stars are His mighty looms, upon which he weaves the light and air that tint the earth and sky with colors divine. But let the looms of light cease for one moment, then this great earth of ours with all its grandeur and beauty would lie naked and dead upon the cold bosom of eternal night. And so it is in human life. It has its looms, which are constantly weaving threads of human kindness into our hearts and into our homes; and let the looms of love, that which was never born and can never die, cease for one moment, then happiness would die upon the hearthstone, from which emanates the love and purity of the nation, and laughter would perish among the roses at the door.

On an occasion like this, my friends, how can words soar as high as thought or sink to the depth of feeling? What language can paint the emotions of the soul when we lift the veil which time has cast and bring forth from amidst the rubbish of buried recollections and thoughts the sorrows and sadness that have paved your lives wonder. And when we think of parting with one who is so near and dear to us, and when we look through the golden firmament of hope for that greater and grander day when we shall meet again, the soft fingers of an unseen angel's hand touches the pity pulsing strings in the human heart's cord, which exite within us a world of images, of sentiment and thoughts and transports our souls upwards and onward until like a lark they pour forth their celestial music at the very portals of heaven.

And on an occasion like this, one of the most gratifying things of all is the fundamental belief of all Christians of this great civilized world, our consoling feature, immortality of the soul, and surely there is not in life a pang so cruel as love's farewell forever, and we will believe in immortality and immortality must obtain as long as love, which is extended from the heart of every man within the hearing of my voice this day, kisses the lips of death. And to-day, notwithstanding the fact that our dear friend has gone down through the valley of the shadow into the mansions of eternal peace, there is that which is gratifying to us all, that as we believe in God and His teachings, and in the teachings of our Lord and Saviour,

Jesus Christ, there is this gratifying feature, that who knows but to-day that he is one of the golden harps spoken of and swept into melody by the heavenly hand of God.

ATTENDANCE OF SENATE AT FUNERAL OF HON. CHARLES J. MAGEE

Mr. KLINE offered the following resolution, which was twice read:

Resolved, That the Senate and its officers attend the funeral services of our late colleague, Hon. Charles J. Magee, at the residence of the deceased in Pittsburgh.

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

Mr. KLINE. Mr. President, I desire to state for the benefit of the members of the Senate of Pennsylvania, in regard to attending the funeral of the late Charles J. Magee, that notice of the time of the funeral will be given later to each member of the Senate.

And the question recurring,
Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

WEDNESDAY, March 14, 1917.

The House met at 10 o'clock A. M.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. S. G. Zerfass, offered the following prayer:

Our Father, may we realize that we cannot live without Thee.

Give us water to drink from the river of Thy pleasure, and satisfy us with Thy mercy.

Wilt Thou put good thoughts into our hearts only, to fall from Heaven like stars and begin to glow in us, that from our lives may go out revealings of the Redeemer to bless the world.

Fit us now for making other lives happy. May the fire of love burn in our hearts. May we be able to be comforters of those who are in sorrow and distress, and thus bear one another's burdens, even to the sad hour of death.

May we witness in all ways to the greatness of Thy mercy, the tenderness of Thy love and the abundance of Thy grace.

We pray Thee that our petitions may be answered. Amen.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 728, entitled

A Joint Resolution providing for a joint committee to investigate the alleged scarcity and high costs of foodstuffs in the Commonwealth and making an appropriation therefor

Whereas The stability and integrity of any State or nation depends at all times upon the interest which the Government thereof manifests in the well being of its people and in the promotion of their happiness in protecting them in their individual and collective enjoyment of certain rights which are common and natural to all and

Whereas The protection of these rights is not only a fundamental duty on the part of those entrusted with authority but appears to be at this time of such vital and immediate importance as to require good sense and intelligence on the part of all in authority to ascertain and provide appropriate remedies in aid of these rights to life liberty and happiness for which alone any state or government has any good reason to exist and

Whereas We do not wish to be wanting in our attention to a condition of affairs now existing in many parts of this Commonwealth and in other States of the nation which has been called to our attention by the humble petitions of our people and by our own personal knowledge and experience in domestic life which convinces us that large numbers of people in all respects honorable and industrious are not enabled to enjoy life by reason of the increased cost of foodstuffs and other necessaries of life entailing wholesale suffering to men women and children and at a time when the nation is still at peace and appears to have been blessed with an abundant harvest and

Whereas This unpleasant and distressing condition of affairs giving rise to protest by those suffering therefrom has resulted in several serious disturbances of the peace and of the good order of communities otherwise lawabiding and respectful and

Whereas This condition of unrest is not likely to be settled by riot or by the disturbance of others in the lawful pursuit of their rights but may result in still further offences without accomplishing the end desired and thereby disturb and endanger the peace and dignity of this Commonwealth

Therefore Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That prompt and immediate action be agreed to to ascertain the cause or causes responsible for this increased cost of the necessaries of life which appear to have risen beyond the reach of those now suffering therefrom

Be it Further Resolved That a joint committee consisting of three (3) members of the Senate one of whom shall be a representative of a minority political party shall be appointed by the President pro tempore of the Senate and four (4) members of the House one of whom shall be a representative of a minority political party shall be appointed by the Speaker of the House be created for the purpose of making a full free and unobstructed comprehensive and impartial investigation of all and singular the aforesaid matters and charges concerning the increased cost of all foodstuffs and other necessities of life

Be it Further Resolved That said joint committee is hereby directed to organize forthwith after the approval of this joint resolution by the Governor to hold such and as many meetings and hearings as it may deem necessary to summon witnesses to further the aim and purposes of these resolutions in aid of an investigation as aforesaid and in aid of some remedy by appropriate legislation or otherwise to be recommended to issue subpoenas administer oaths and compel the attendance of such witness or witnesses and the production of all such books bills checks check books papers minutes records vouchers agreements receipts bills of lading shipping receipts shipping instructions letters advertisements and all each and every other form of written or documentary evidence as may be pertinent or germain to the inquiry and

Be It Further Resolved That the said joint committee shall be vested with the fullest and most complete powers which the General Assembly by virtue of the Constitution and the Sovereign Powers of a State can confer upon such committee for the accomplishment of its purposes and

Be It Further Resolved That the said joint committee shall be authorized to employ auditors accountants counsel learned in the law stenographers clerks messengers investigators and all such other clerical or skilled assistance as may be necessary for the proper discharge of the duties hereby imposed upon said committee and to further the inquiry by them to be made the Sergeant-at-Arms to be appointed by said committee is directed to attend said joint committee to serve all the subpoenas issued by it and generally enforce all the orders which said joint committee is hereby authorized to make and

Be It Further Resolved That the State Dairy and Food Commissioner of the State is hereby directed to make careful inquiry through his department into the causes of these conditions in so far as the storage and any speculative operation within the State may or may not effect the price of foodstuffs therein and shall furnish to the said committee in so far as possible all information obtainable on said subject with any suggestions he may have in mind to bring about a reduction in any extraordinary or unreasonable increase in the price of foodstuffs as aforesaid and shall render such report or reports to the committees aforesaid no later than April thirtieth one thousand nine hundred and seventeen.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WILLIAM DAVIS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the sponsor to explain this bill, or someone representing the sponsor of the bill who is looking after it to explain it.

Mr. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, I am not the sponsor of the bill, yet two years ago I was sponsor for a bill that passed this House by almost a unanimous vote, giving these men who have been knocking at the door of this Legislature for years for permission and power to regulate their profession. In 1901 the first bill regulating this profession was passed in the State of Minnesota. During the sixteen since then forty-two states have passed an act giving the power to these men to regulate their own profession, and they have been knocking at the doors of this Legislature for the purpose of having the same power that the other forty-two states in the Union have given. But up to the present time they have failed to receive recognition.

The purpose of this bill is to give these men the power to regulate their profession under the act of 1911, known as the Board of Medical Examiners and Licensure, giving the medical fraternity the power to regulate their profession. Under the law of 1913 which amended the act of 1911 they amended the act so as to include all branches of the department in which they were interested. Immediately the Board of Medical Examiners and Licensure formed plans to put these men under the board and notified them that there would be an examination for them to come under that particular board, taking the act of 1913 for the purpose of claiming that optometry was a branch of the medical profession. Immediately these men went into the court of Common Pleas of Philadelphia and asked for an injunction. After a fair and careful hearing, an injunction was granted. They carried it to the Supreme Court of our State, and the Supreme Court sent down a decision, I think it was in 1916, or the latter part of 1915, that this particular profession was not and should not be considered a branch of the Medical Bureau of Education and Licensure. Now they come again to you for the purpose of appealing to you as men to give them the power of regulating their own profession, the same as the other branches which might be included as a branch under the act of 1913. They cannot come under that act and they are not a branch of the Medical Board of Examiners and Licensure. This House, this General Assembly, has granted to these other various professions power to regulate their own profession, and for that reason they come here asking you to give them the same power so that the thousand of quacks who come into the State of Pennsylvania—who had this law in New York, Maryland, and other states the right to say that such persons as the quack shall be prevented from fitting glasses for the eye which we know is a very important profession for the people of this Commonwealth.

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Dunn.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Dunn, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, when I get through.

As I stated, to you gentlemen the only addition to this act from the one of 1915, passed as I said by almost a unanimous vote of this House is that each year a new license is issued to the members of this profession at a cost of two dollars to these men. The purpose of that is to create a fund to pay these men who do not get a salary —to pay these men ten dollars a day and their expenses, when these examinations are being held. That is the purpose of this act. They are appealing to you for that purpose.

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker, for information I merely wanted to ask the gentleman from Philadelphia whether the medical profession had an opportunity to be heard in the committee of Health and Sanitation with respect to this measure.

Mr. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, I am not on the committee of Health and Sanitation, which I was two years ago, but I think the Chairman probably of that committee might answer the question.

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the Chairman of the Committee of Health and Sanitation whether the medical profession have had an opportunity to be heard in reference to this bill. I think they demanded a public hearing, at least I was given to understand that.

Mr. GANS. Mr. Speaker, I had no request from anyone for a public hearing on this bill, and it was reported out last Tuesday.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. STERN. Mr. Speaker, I would ask that the sponsor of this bill explain its purposes.

Mr. RICH. Mr. Speaker, the purpose of this bill is to close the bowling alleys, pool rooms, billiard rooms, and so forth, at 12 o'clock, and on the Sabbath. The bill does not prohibit the concluding of any game that may be in operation, but the doors are to be closed at 12 o'clock so that no additional game can be taken up afterwards. The purpose of the bill is to protect against unseasonable hours for these kinds of games. We all recognize that the proper place for a young man, or all men for that matter, is at home after midnight, and to have these places open is an inducement for wrong in keeping them away from their homes.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the Clerk return the same to the Senate with the information that the House has passed it with amendments in which the concurrence of the Senate is requested.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time from page 2 of today's calendar bills on final passage postponed, House Bill No. 185, File Folio 623.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 185 entitled

An Act amending section six of an act entitled "An Act authorizing the release on probation of certain convicts, instead of imposing sentences; the appointment of probation and parole officers, and the payment of their salaries and expenses; regulating the manner of sentencing convicts in certain cases, and providing for their release on parole; their conviction of crime during parole, and their rearrest and reconviction for breach of parole; and extending the powers and duties of boards of prison inspectors of penitentiaries," approved the nineteenth day of June, one thousand nine hundred eleven; in order that same may limit the minimum sentence so that it shall in no case exceed one-third of the maximum sentence.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WALKER. Mr. Speaker, when this bill was before the House some few days ago it was not my intention to speak upon it, for I felt that it had so much merit in it that the House would probably be able to find it. I did not want to for another reason, and that is, that I realize that there is a danger in too much speaking. I recall, Sir, that after McKinley had been assassinated two Irishmen were discussing that holocaust and one said, "Sure, they will hang that rascal." The other said, "No, they won't." And the first asked why. The second Irishman replied, "Don't you know now in New York they kill them with elocution." So it is not my intention to destroy any of the lives of this House with elocution. I can recall as a boy, in studying the catechism, that there was a question in it like this: "What kind of a place is Heaven?" And the answer is, "A most glorious, holy and happy place." Now to the members of the twenty-first district in Philadelphia this House is a most glorious and happy place; I will not, however, say we are holy. And for that reason, Mr. Speaker, I do not want to injure any man by having him listen to a very long speech. However, there has been injected into this bill that which I consider a personal attack. There has been misinformation disseminated among the members of this House, and at this time I am extremely thankful that this bill was not called on Monday night. Had it been, the printed memorandum which you received yesterday might cause you to feel that I had, perchance, attempted to do something which in all honor I should not have done. I recall the danger of misinformation in a story given us some time ago about an Irishman who went one evening to confession. He came late and there was a great crowd waiting at the church, and one of the priests came out and saw him there and said, "Paddy, you are late to-night." "Yes," he said, "I just got off the cars a few moments ago." The priest said that this was Saturday night and he would take his confession, saying, "Have you ever committed murder?" "No. sir; I have not." Then the priest said, "If you have not, then come back next Thursday night." The Irishman went on down street, and meeting a friend, said: "Barney, where are you going?" Barney answered, "To the church." The first Irishman said, "Have you ever committed murder?" He answered, "No, I never have." Then the first man said, "If you have not, then the confession is off until Thursday night, they are only hearing murder cases to-night." The information in that case was incorrect and so it is in this one. I will take the first issue—I will not call the man a lawyer, but a member of the bar of Philadelphia. He has written you men regarding the purposes of this bill. I want to say to you men that when I drafted this bill I drafted it as a result of conditions which I found existing in the Eastern Penitentiary and also existing in other State institutions, as well as the western, and in the reformatories. I found on examination of the records of these institutions that the practice which this State, which the Federal Government, has approved—that of parole, has been more or less forgotten. I found that men were sent to the penitentiary supposedly to be corrected who were not corrected and who had no chance to be corrected because, gentlemen, this House has declared more than once that the parole system is a system of correction. This House has declared that there is more in imprisonment than merely keeping a man behind the bars. It has declared that the purpose of imprisonment is correcting a man and sending him forth if he proves himself equal to the occasion among his fellow men until the expiration of such maximum sentence as shall be imposed upon him. I first intend to point out the erroneous statements, and I will be charitable and not term them false, by a certain member of the bar. He says that I represented a man in 1915 who was charged with forgery and embezzlement. It is true; I represented a young man whom I knew from his birth who was given perhaps an unfortunate environment and who did rob the company of which he was the acting secretary. Upon examination of the facts of that case I advised him to plead guilty. He did plead guilty to four bills which on the suggestion of the District Attorney were then called up. He received a sentence of from five to seven years in the Eastern Penitentiary and he entered, immediately upon the service of his sentence. After the Committee on Judiciary Special had received a letter from this member of the bar I brought out the remaining four bills and on Friday last I had him plead guilty to these remaining four bills. The judge did not impose sentence and will not impose sentence until next month. I was charged, at that time, before the Court with introducing a bill for the purpose of helping in this case; such, gentlemen, is furtherest from my mind, because this House, and every man in it realizes that with this bill under consideration and with your approval of the bill, this young man will receive, if the Court decides, the maximum sentence which shall be equal if not more than the five years that has been the sentence of the minimum. He further says, and this galls me more than anything else, that I have recently made an effort to obtain this young man's release. I made no effort to obtain his release. He says also that I approached him and his client with an idea of obtaining their consent. That, gentlemen, is cut out of the whole cloth. I would not approach him for a personal reason which I do not care to state. It is enough to say that he considers me his enemy because I have disposed of him two or three times. He does not practice according to the ethical practice of lawyers, and he charges me with that offense which he himself commits, the calling upon another lawyer's client; getting in touch with another lawyer's client and attempting to destroy the value of another lawyer's client by personal contact. Therefore, I want to assure you men, on my solemn honor, that I never got in contact with that man or with his client nor do I intend to. This bill has the approval of the Prison Society of Pennsylvania which has done so much to improve present conditions. I am going to ask you to give me your ears for a moment while I tell you the history of the parole legislation of this Stae: In 1909 the first parole bill was passed, and that bill provides among other things that a maximum sentence imposed on a prisoner was the maximum provided by the statute and the minimum would have to be one-fourth of that maximum. It would appear that a man would be entitled to consideration on the first offense. The Prison Society realized that it was very hard to give the man the limit when he ought to have the benefit of what was provided by the Court not to exceed the maximum imposed. What is the result? They are sentenced like this: Not more than twenty years and not less than nineteen years and eleven months and twenty-nine days; not more than sixteen years, and not less than fifteen years and eleven months. Not less than fifteen years and not more than fifteen years and one month; and I ask you, gentlemen, where any prisoner has a chance to redeem himself with a sentence like that? I aslo take this position that the Court with one or two or three hours' knowledge of a prisoner has not the same information which those men who are charged with his custody have when under their control for months. I also claim that very frequently the prisoner, even a second or third offender at times, is convinced of his error and if he is permitted to go he never comes back. Gentlemen, the record of the prisons throughout this great Union is that seventy-five per cent. of these men paroled do not come back but make good. It is, therefore, for us proving as we have in the past that this parole legislation which gives a chance to the prisoner when he goes in the prison and you can go to that man and say, "You are behind the bars, but here is the key to get out, if you will abide by the rules and regulations of this prison. We want you to show yourself to be a man worthy of confidence and we will give you a chance and you are paroled." Now, what is the purpose of this amendment under consideration? It gives a man what you might say is a medium between the old act of 1909 and this prostitution of sentence by giving a man a one day parole. It says to him, "You go in and you will serve so much as a minimum and if then you have shown yourself to be approved you will be permitted to go until the end of your maximum sentence." Gentlemen, if you will take the trouble to read the Act of 1911,, to which this is an amendment, you will find that the man must specify to the Board of Prison Inspectors who examine carefully every detail of his sentence, the surroundings and the environment and you will find that after that has been done by the Board of Inspectors it goes to the Governor for his approval and after he has approved it it goes to the Board of Pardons and they will hold a hearing on the subject. What was the purpose of the Act? To give a man a chance after serving one-third if he proved equal to making good. This very House, in 1913, said that that was a good plan, because in 1913 this House passed a bill, the first section of which I will read: "That any convict in the State penitentiaries who is now serving under a sentence or sentences imposed prior to the first day of July 1911, may, when he or she shall have served one-third of such sentence or sentences be eligible to parole under the provisions and subject to the conditions of the Act to which this is a supplement." The United States Congress considered this matter in 1910, which provides that a man may be released on parole after serving one-third of his sentence. In 1912 the Congress of the United States again considered that Act and approved it, and added to it this provision which is not in my amendment: That is, where a prisoner has been sentenced for life, if he has served fifteen years he may be released on parole for the remaindr of his life. My position is to the acts of the courts as it now stands in some cases where a man is not given a chance is this: Because they obey the letter of the law but they don't obey its spirit. You men all know that the letter killeth and the spirit maketh life. You men also know that an act like this, as it now stands, reminds us for all the world of those beautiful statues of Lincoln, of Grant, of Washington, and of Franklin. We look on a beautiful visage but not of the life that was there. Therefore, I ask you to give these men a chance to redeem themselves and go out amongst their fellowmen and make good. I ask you men to stand with me and give these men a chance to redeem their character and become good citizens. The Act is absolutely humane. There is merit in it; there is a square deal in it for every man that wants a square deal and for the crook and for the man who will not take it, or for the man who breaks his parole, there is a greater sentence than ever before.

Mr. GOODWIN. Mr. Speaker, I care nothing about the personalities that have been injected into the consideration of this bill. Personalities should have no place in the consideration of any bill, much less the consideration of a bill that relates to our criminal statutes. This bill, gentlemen, is not in harmony with our criminal code. There are two systems of arrangement of the terms of criminal punishment; one is to provide a maximum and also to provide a certain minimum. Gentlemen, the revisers of our criminal code, men of extensive experience in criminal practice, after consideration were emphatic in favor of leaving the minimum sentence to the discretion of the court that tried the case. Anyone who has had experience in the trial of criminal cases must know that there is a great difference in the atrocity of the crimes that come before the court. Some are surrounded by extenuating circumstances while others are surrounded by such atrocity that the offender deserves no mercy whatever. Now, who is so well qualified to determine the facts about what should be the minimum sentence as the court who tries the defendant? He hears the evidence; he observes the defendant; he hears the witnesses, and how can we, gentlemen, legislate about cases we know nothing about as well as the court that tries the defendant charged with the crime?

What will be the result if this bill passes? If the defendant in any case serves one third of his maximum sentence, the next step will be to apply for a parole. The Board of Prison Inspectors sit once every month, and the next step would be to take his case to that Board, and if that Board does not approve his parole they must give a detailed statement of their reasons to the Governor of this Commonwealth. Examples are numerous where one-third of the maximum sentence would be entirely inadequate to the crime charged. For example, the crime of assault with intent to kill; no difference how heinous may be the act, no difference how aggravating the circumstances. the maximum sentence is seven years; the minimum would be a little over two years. Then, no difference how near the assassin or attempted assassin would come to killing his victim, after he had served two and one-third years he could apply to the Board of Prison Inspectors for parole. What is the object of our criminal law? The criminal law feels and regrets every pain it causes, but it is for the protection of society; it is for the punishment of the guilty and to protect the innocent. Therefore, gentlemen, because I believe this bill, if it becomes a law, is out of harmony with our whole criminal code, and because I believe it would take something away from the security of society and something away from the protection of the innocent, I am opposed to it.

Mr. WALTERS. Mr. Speaker, I should be sorry if the House should reverse its position on this bill. The Judges of this State are certainly to be trusted in the administration of the criminal law. I do not approve of the conduct of some judges who impose sentences such as mentioned by the gentleman from Philadelphia, but I submit that those cases are exceptions and not general. Personally I should favor a bill of this sort which would give the courts, which would cut down their discretion to a certain extent, but when you consider that the maximum penalty for larceny is three years and the maximum penalty for aggravated assault and battery is three years and not less than one, and the man could be paroled after one year, there is some circumstances where the offender should not be paroled after the end of a year. The penalty for forgery is, as I recall it, five years, and there are circumstances in that case where the offender ought not to be paroled within fifteen months after his incarceration. The Legislature tried this indeterminate plan in substantially the same manner in 1909, as the gentleman from Philadelphia has told you. That action was reversed, and it would seem now that we would be making a mistake to go back to the act of 1909 after it had been tried in the judgment of this body and found wanting. If a bill of this sort were introduced so that the judges would have the discretion, say of fifty per cent. of the maximum, that is, could make the minimum not more than fifty per cent. of the maximum, it would have my cordial support; but this bill is running too far in the other direction.

Mr. McNICHOL. The gentlemen who have spoken in opposition to this bill seem to lose sight of the fact that before a prisoner could avail himself of its provisions the merit of his application for a parole would be most carefully inquired into. The Judge imposing the sentence would be consulted; the prison authorities would be consulted; the Governor would have to approve, and the Board of Pardons; and I submit, gentlemen, that the gauntlet that the prisoner would have to run before he would get his parole would insure justice being done.

Now, I had no interest particularly in this bill until by accident I went into our Court of Quarter Sessions No. 2 on last Friday, and the case referred to by my colleague from Philadelphia was before the Court, and I want to say to you gentlemen that the lawyer who has importuned you men to oppose this bill showed anything but a Christian-like spirit in his demeanor before that court. He did not appear there as an honest prosecutor, but he appeared there as a persecutor. As Mr. Walker told you, his interest in the defendant was that of a schoolboy friend, and this man who asks you to-day to vote against this measure, his whole cry to the Court was this: "If he makes restitution and gives back the money that he defrauded the company of, we are satisfied to let him go." He was not there for the purpose of protecting society; he was there for the purpose of obtaining dollars and cents.

Now, gentlemen, we all know the temptations that men are subject to; we all know that in the moment of weakness when temptations present themselves any of us may fall and that men who have practiced in the Courts of Quarter Sessions of the various counties from which we come can point to shining examples of men who occupy high places in the community to-day who were weak in that moment of temptation and who yielded to the temptation and underwent prison sentence. and when they found that an opportunity would be afforded to them whereby they might retrieve their loss, where they would have an opportunity to re-establish themselves as members of the community, to-day occupy high places; and there is not a man here, if he will stop to consider, that won't feel that the most lowly is worthy of the helping hand because it has been well said that "there is good in the worst of us."

I look upon this bill as a meritorious one, and I am asking you gentlemen to-day to give your assent to its passage in order to show that you are humane and that you are willing to help the unfortunate and give him his chance; not as my friend on the right or my friend on the left thinks, that the mere application for a parole under this law would give the right to the defendant to go free—not at all; he would have to run the gauntlet of the inquiry before referred to by me, and if his case was not a meritorious one it would not receive favor. Gentlemen of the House, give your assent to this bill. Consider that even though but one man benefits by it you actually have performed your duty when you give him a chance again and he takes his place in the community as a worthy citizen.

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 461, entitled

An Act to amend section one of the act approved the twenty-seventh day of April one thousand nine hundred and nine (Pamphlet Laws two hundred and thirty-seven) entitled "An Act regulating the sale of milk and its fluid derivatives in cities of the first class providing for the licensing of those engaged in that business and providing penalties for the violation thereof"

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. FRANKLIN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk for information.

The Clerk then read the amendments as follows:

Amend section 1, line 28—strike out the word such.

Amend section 1, line 1, on page 3—strike out words sum or sums for inspection as shall be fixed by ordinance of councils of said city and insert after the word health on line 28, page 2, the words "the sum of two dollars."

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the insertion of the amendments at this time? Is there any objection? The Chair hears none, and the amendments will be inserted in accordance with the instruction of the House.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended lie over for printing.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 359, entitled

An Act allowing appeals from orders of court entered on motions to quash or dissolve writs of foreign attachment.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, I desire to have the sponsor of this bill explain its provisions.

Mr. BENNINGER. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I do not think that this bill needs much explanation. I introduced this bill by request. I am not a lawyer, and I do not know a great deal about it. All the lawyers that I consulted about it tell me it is a good bill. I want to say that several years ago I had a friend that showed cattle at a fair. After he went away from there they attached his premium money. He wrote me about four weeks after that he could not get his money. When I went to Easton to get an appeal so that he could get his money, my attorney told me that he could not have any appeal, so I know that this is a good bill.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 337 (Senate No. 34), entitled

An Act authorizing county commissioners to establish lights on county bridges

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. GEORGE W. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, in its present form I don't think that this bill will serve the purpose intended. In order to give me a chance to confer with the sponsor of this bill with a view of having it amended, I move that it be postponed for the present.

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The motion was agreed to.

RESOLUTION.

Mr. WALTER asked and received unanimous consent to call up Resolution No. 8, which was twice read as follows:

Whereas The National Administration has been embarrassed and hampered in the conduct of the Foreign Affairs of the Nation by the unpatriotic acts of certain Senators of the United States in refusing authority to the President to protect the lives and property of American citizens on high seas

Therefore Be it resolved (if the Senate concur) by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that it is the sense of this body that the Senators and Representatives of Pennsylvania in the Congress of the United States should cordially and heartily support the National Administration in all efforts to protect the lives and property of Americans upon the high seas from submarine attacks as now made that President Wilson is to be commended for taking a firm stand against those barbarous methods of warfare which must necessarily cause the death of men women and children and that the manhood and resources of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania are hereby pledged to the National Government to the end that the safety of the citizens of the United States working and traveling upon the high seas may be preserved and the dignity and honor of the United States maintained

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

Mr. MAURER. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I feel that it would be a mistake to pass that resolution at this time for the simple reason that it casts considerable reflection upon twelve senators. Now I have read the Congressional Record of the particular period when these men were charged with filibustering and I feel after reading that Record that we owe those people at least a fair hearing. I would not like to go on record as condemning a public official until I have heard at least his side of it. This resolution, if it passes, will be a scathing indictment against these men. I do not believe that any of us here would care to do that no matter what our feelings might be on the subject.

As to the latter part of the resolution, that is another question; but the forepart brands them as being unpatriotic. Now I believe all of us are patriotic. What some of us think is patriotism, some do not think so. What some people do under the name of patriotism we do not brand as patriotism. That is a matter of opinion; and if, gentlemen, we, up here in Pennsylvania, at this crtitcal moment, if we go on record by passing that resolution I feel indeed it would be a mistake. It practically declares for war. Now, I do not believe that any one member of this House wants war; I do not believe it; and I know from my experience with the people that the great overwhelming majority of our citizens are also opposed to war. Now, I believe that we as an assembly should instruct our congressmen truthfully and give them the exact sentiment.

Is this resolution going to give that sentiment? Personally, gentlemen, I don't think it will. I know it may sound popular to go along with any movement that seems to prevail, but I believe every one of you will agree with me that the sentiment in favor of war at this time is created by certain great newspapers in the country. When I speak to people the psychology is different and let us at least be truthful to our positions and not take that which is printed in the daily papers as our evidence to condemn twelve senators by. I do not believe that we would like to be treated so and I would not like to treat any one else different from what I would like to be treated myself. Let us lay this resolution over; it will not spoil. We are going to adjourn to-day, and then let us get our Congressional Records and read what these men really done and if after we know what they done we feel the resolution should be passed we can do so, but not now. Let us not help to stampede Congress in the heighth of excitement to-day because we that may aid the stampede may be sorry for it. We see the awful condition of affairs in Europe and what a sad condition exists there. I heard men say a million of us should be in the trenches over in Europe. I don't want a man in the trenches, but I say this, I am an American first, last and all the time and I want to protect the American interests first. I do not want to see a single life lost if we can prevent it. To me, life is too dear. I do not want to see any injustice done to our people in this country through a spasmodic-like stampede in a certain direction, and it seems to me the way things are going the last couple of weeks we are going along blindly and not reasoning all the way.

I am sorry the gentleman brought up his resolution. I asked him this morning not to. I believe we can well afford to lay it over until we have time to consider. That is our first duty, gentlemen, to our constituents. If you pass it you will find that the jingo press that is for war will say that Pennsylvania is unanimously in favor of war. I make the prediction and you will find that is what they will do. You know that is not true, of course not; we know that; while we may be willing to fight, and I come from an old family of fighters—my grandfather was in the revolutionary war and my ancestry fought in every war in this country; I trace my ancestry in Pennsylvania back for two hundred years; I am an old Pennsylvanian and I therefore hold this State and Union dear to my heart and I plead with you with all the power within me, please do not pass this resolution; do not do it; if you do, I am sorry and I feel that you will all regret it in a way. Down in the bottom of my heart I believe that you all agree with me, I really do, but the trouble is that many of us feel that if we do not go along we will not be considered patriotic. The man that can face a rabble when he feels it is wrong and fight it is a true patriot and I call the people who are trying to run us into this ungodly war an ungodly rabble. We must use our heads and reason out for ourselves and not as a subsidized press would reason it out for us. I therefore hope gentlemen and I ask you with all sincerity that you don't pass this resolution.

If a motion is in order to postpone action at this time I should make such a motion. Mr. Speaker, would such a motion be in order?

The SPEAKER. Yes, but the gentleman's motion don't seem to be seconded.

Mr. BEYER. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. Walter and Mr. Sarig, and were as follows

So the question was determined in the negative and the motion was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, if this resolution meant anything, I believe every son of us would be willing to go along with it and vote for its support, and for its passage. It has no reference to the twelve men who filibustered in the United States Senate, it only applied to the Congressmen and the Senators from this State, and if you look up any record you will find that every one of the Senators and everyone of the Congressmen representing this State stood by the President. If we pass the resolution now asking them to do something that they have already done, it seems to me it would be a slur on ourselves, leaving the impression that we do not know how our Congressmen and how our United States Senators stood in regard to the question before the Senate a week or two ago. It is an atack upon the integrity of the men themselves when they have done right, to come here with a resolution afterwards and ask them to do right. This resolution does not mean anything. It is brought on here for no other purpose than the purpose of giving some notoriety to some one that will make the blood that runs through his veins appear a little more patriotic to his constituents at home, and for that reason I am going to vote against the resolution.

Mr. WALTERS. Mr. Speaker, this resolution, I trust, expresses the sentiment of the members of the Legislature of Pennsylvania at this time. If it does not so express their sentiment, I should greatly regret it, and I think it would have an unfortunate effect upon the patriotic people of this country. Now, this resolution mentions certain unpatriotic sentiments as I understand it when I drafted it, that referred to these Senators who by an active filibuster prevented the passage of the Armed Ship Bill, which action was applauded in Berlin and loudly applauded by those citizens of the United States who are against war at any time or all the time. Now the resolution binds nobody. Perhaps, it were better if a resolution of this sort were never brought into this House, but it has been the custom of the House to entertain such things. No longer than a few weeks ago a resolution was passed with respect to certain actions in Congress wtih respect to the tariff was passed, as I recollect it, largely by a party vote. We have had this thing of Legislatures, all the Legislatures of the several States that were in session, pass resolutions similar in character to this, saying that their respective States were behind the President in his efforts to prevent warfare of the sort that is being carried on, resulting in the death of American citizens who are non-combatants, and who, when they are attacked by submarines had no more chance for their lives than a rat in the hole.

We have just learned by a dispatch that the American ship, Algonquin, carrying the American flag, and an American crew, was torpedoed without warning last night or yesterday. Under the circumstances if we want to give aid and comfort to the people in this country who do not stand with the President in his desire to arm American ships, in order to protect them from the aggressions of the submarine, and if we want to be applauded in Berlin, why then vote down this resolution. I do not think it is impudent for us to express our opinion as to what we think our Congressmen ought to do and the phraseology of this resolution is simply to the effect that it is the sense of this body that they should stand by the President. When they do so we approve, and we express the opinion that they should do so. It is meant as no reflection upon anyone except those persons who will not stand up for the flag when the Congress of the United States by an enormous majority, with popular approval, which I do not believe for one moment resulted from the articles in the press, have said that they would stand behind the President, and I think Pennsylvania should stand up in that way. I trust that the House will adopt this resolution.

Mr. BEYER. Mr. Speaker, I almost hesitate to enter this discussion, because I know what it means. I do so because I recognize the intolerant spirit which pervades the press of the day and the jingoism of the land. I am in sympathy with all else in this resolution excepting the first part of it. I do not believe there is a man in this chamber that does not feel when the dignity and honor of his native land is being called into question, that he should stand up like a man in defense of the honor of his country. But when men are challenged in their manhood, when men are denied the right in a legislative assembly such as the great Congress of the United States to stand up and honestly speak what they believe to be right without being called cowards and traitors to the flag that they hold as sacred and as dear as you and I, then I say the time for representative government is gone away and the age of tyranny is at hand. Do you know what this means? It means that men born and raised in this land of the free, this home of liberty, this land of justice, who in the fulfilment of their honest convictions rose in the national assembly of your nation to keep this country out of war, are to be branded as traitors to their country. Men have a right to differ. You men come here and differ with me, and I with you, but I never call into question your sincerity of purpose, and I do not go home to my constituents and brand you as cowards and traitors, nor I do not endorse any unjust criticism that may be made of you even in the daily press. I believe that the President of the United States has on hand at this time a greater task than any man who ever sat in the chair. I believe that in this great world conflict raging around us and endeavoring to involve us and spill good American blood in a foreign complication, that the President of the United States has done thus far all that could be expected, and maybe a little more, in the midst of this trying condition; and I am for standing at all times with the President, be he right or wrong, when the honor of my country is at question; but I ask you in all fairness to see to it that this resolution be amended by striking out the unjust criticism made by men simply because they stood in the Senate Chamber of the United States, honestly voicing their sentiments on the bill pending. As I understand it, gentlemen, within twenty-four hours before the United States Congress was to expire by limitation, the President of the United States sent into that body a big mass of bills covering appropriations and deficiencies in the national government, which required the serious consideration of the Senate at that time. If these bills had been read word for word and line for line at that time, they would be reading those bills even down to the present. So at no time was there an occasion for a filibuster. They could have called for the reading of those bills, and could have blocked anything there. Those men rose because they differed in their opinions of the situation from that which other men entertained, and surely we must give to each other as American citizens that equal justice, that equal confidence which we ask for ourselves. When war comes, and the dignity of our nation is challenged and the sword must be drawn and powder fired, you will find the men you are now condemning among the first to rise in the ranks to the support of Old Glory and in the upholding of the honor and dignity of the people. I am against this resolution, and I say so regretfully, because there are reflections in it against men who differed in their opinions and who voted against certain propositions in Congress. It isn't fair to us; it isn't fair to the man who differed from the President of the United States to call him a coward or a traitor. Do you know that before independence was ever declared for the thirteen original states, men like Washington and Franklin differed, and were the last to come across the line, when other people were shouting for independence; but when war came they threw aside their allegiance to their home country. adopted the spirit of independence, and gave us what we have to-day? Not that I am against the resolution in its spirit—I want to uphold the President of the United States, and I glory in the record of our representatives in Congress, be they Democrats or be they Republicans, for standing by him, but I do not believe in branding any man as a coward, a fool, or guilty of treason simply because he has the manhood and courage to do what he believes to be right.

Mr. WALLACE. Mr. Speaker, I hope the House will pass this resolution. I believe we are endeavoring to inject something into this resolution that should not be and is not in it. We are not condemning any man in Congress or elsewhere for the ideas that he may have or may express. But this is a government essentially by majority, and we would not tolerate the obstruction in this House of business of the majority by a few men. These men are not entitled to condemnation for their beliefs or what they express, but, gentlemen, they are entitled to condemnation for obstructing the overwhelming will of the majority in Congress. This resolution only condemns them for the obstruction which they are responsible for and must assume before the people of this land. The President of the United States is our President, and the great State of Pennsylvania has never failed to stand behind the President and the government in such critical times as these. I believe it is eminently proper that we approve by this resolution the attitude of the present administration at this time, in order that the world may know that the people are back of the President and will stand by him, no matter what may come to face this great country. It is true that our representatives in Congress have stood with the government. Is it not then eminently proper and fitting that we approve of their course and the stand of the President? He is our President, no matter with what political party we are affiliated, and he is entitled to our support. There is nothing in this resolution, Mr. Speaker, that condemns any man unjustly, but it does condemn any man or set of men that undertakes to obstruct the will of the majority, and the will of the majority by our laws and institutions is entitled to control and should control; and the very spirit of Americanism condemns any man or set of men that undertakes to thwart the will of the majority. That is why I am for this resolution, and I believe that it should pass.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. Speaker, I move that the further consideration of this resolution be postponed indefinitely.

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

POINT OF ORDER.

Mr. WALTER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. WALTER. Mr. Speaker, my point of order is that the motion of the gentleman from Allegheny has already been before the House.

The SPEAKER. The former motion was to postpone for the present. This motion is to postpone consideration indefinitely, therefore the point of order is not well taken.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

TUESDAY EVENING, March 13, 1917.

MEMORIAL SERVICES ON DEATH OF CHARLES J. RONEY, LATE REPRESENTATIVE FROM PHILADELPHIA.

HONORABLE JOHN M. FLYNN presiding.

CHAIRMAN FLYNN. This session of the House is called for the purpose of doing honor to our late member from the third district of Philadelphia, the Honorable Charles J. Roney, and the Chairman would ask the Chaplain to open the session with prayer.

PRAYER.

The Rev. S. G. Zerfass offered the following prayer.

God of comfort and consolation, we turn from our daily duties and come to Thy feet in our sorrow on this memorial occasion to pay tribute to one who was a member of the House of Representatives, and has passed from us.

To whom can we come but to Thee? Our hearts are broken, but in our grief, we will trust in Thee.

We thank Thee for words of comfort, for the divine promises, for the assurances of sympathy, and for the blessed hope of resurrection and immortality found in Holy Writ.

Surely we can come to Thee trusting in that larger hope.

We pray that blessing may rest upon the associates of the departed, so that we cherish his memory, bury all imperfections and extol his virtues. Be with the family with consolation and comfort. Surely Thou are their refuge and wilt give us all Thy peace. He truly lived to be missed, not only to be good, but to be good for service to his people.

May the memories of the vanished life stay in our hearts as holy benedictions. May our lives be all the sweeter for the grief that has touched them. Dear Lord, we would get very near unto Thee and find shelter underneath Thy everlasting arms.

Bless all with Thy tenderest bessings of Thy great love. We ask all these favors in the name of Christ the Savior, and beseech Thee that our prayers may be answered. Amen.

Mr. COX. Mr. Chairman, I desire to offer the following resolution.

RESOLUTION.

Whereas, Since the last session of the Legislature, through the divine will of the Creator of all things, Honorable Charles J. Roney, Jr., a member of the House of Representatives of Pennsylvania from the Third Philadelphia District, was called from his life work to rest; and

Whereas, Representative Roney was known as an active member of the House, a patriotic citizen, a loving husband and indulgent and affectionate father; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House profoundly regrets the death of Honorable Charles J. Roney, Jr., late a member of this body, and extends to the family of the deceased member sincere condolence in their bereavement.

Resolved, That we are deeply conscious of the loss sustained by his death, and desire to bear witness to his sterling worth as a man, his integrity and ability as a legislator, and his courtesy and fidelity towards those with whom he was associated.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions, with the action of the House thereon, be forwarded to the family of the deceased by the Clerk of the House.

JOHN M. FLYNN,
ISADORE STERN,
EDWIN R. COX.

On the question,
Will the House adopt the resolution?

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. Chairman and fellow members, we are assembled here to-night to pay a last tribute to our departed colleague, Charley J. Roney, who was a man of peculiar attainments. Although many years difference existed in the ages of him and me, we both started life together in a public sense. It was my pleasure to be elected to the session of 1911, the first time that he too was called to serve his constituents, and the older members of this body remember well how this chamber rang with his eloquence, and how this body was swayed with his persuasiveness and logic; but with all the varied attainments that he possessed he still was a modest man. I knew him too as a fellow-practitioner at the Philadelphia bar, and no more able advocate did the bar possess than he. Although a boy in years, he was recognized and looked upon as the leader of the junior bar. Charley J. Roney was not actuated in the discharge of his duties with a prospect of reward in sight, because he was just as earnest in the advocacy of a client's cause whom he served without pay as he was for those who paid him. Charley J. Roney's pay often came when he reunited a family, when he gave the errant boy back to the household, when he returned the father to the family, and looking down the corridor of the City Hall at that reunited family, he felt that he was amply repaid because he had contributed to this man or the boy, whatever the case might be, a chance to redeem himself. It is seldom that one so youthful was possessed with so strong and brilliant attainments as he. He was a strong man, although a boy in years. He was honest and he was courageous. He was respected by all who knew him, because his word was his bond. And my feeble attempt to-night, gentlemen, to pay the tribute that I feel towards him does not do justice, and you men that knew him as I did learned to love him, and in his loss we have suffered the departure of a genial companion and honest friend.

LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR FRANK B. McCLAIN. Mr. Chairman, they tell us that among the people of Ireland there is a venerable and beautiful custom in the observance of which the traveler or passer-by, in meeting a funeral cortege, turns and for a brief distance, at least, walks with the solemn procession. No matter whether Death has knocked at the door of castle or cabin, this universal homage is paid by to-day's living and to-morrow's dead. It is well that we should pause for a brief moment amid the hurry and bustle of this legislative life, and walk for a short while with the memory of Charley Roney. His curtain has been rung down. For him the Play is over, and everything is ended. And, as we hear in our musings the sound of a knell, let us give him one loving Thought, not only for the good he did, but, as well, for the good he intended, and drop a tear on his pall as we bid him Farewell.

Big-bodied; big-hearted; big-handed; big-minded. All who knew him well, loved him. And none name him fairly, but to praise.

Mr. Chairman, much could I say of him, but I am reminded that abruptness is ofttimes an eloquence, and I will sum up my brief Tribute of Affection by quoting the beautiful language of the good Irish poet:

"'Tis not the tear at this moment shed,
When the cold turf has just been laid o'er him,
That can tell how beloved is the soul that has fled—
Or how deep in our hearts we deplore him.

'Tis the tear through many a long day wept,
Through a life by his loss all shaded,
'Tis the sad remembrance fondly kept,
When lighter griefs have faded."

CHAIRMAN FLYNN. We have with us to-night the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Vare, a very warm friend of our departed member, and the Chair now calls upon Senator Vare for a few remarks.

SENATOR EDWIN H. VARE. Mr. Chairman, and gentlemen of the House. I do not know that I am equal to this occasion to speak in memory of one of the ablest men who ever sat in this House. I do not hesitate to say that in my twenty years experience on this Hill I never saw his equal. First, because he was the most brilliant man in my judgment that ever sat in this House in my time, and second because of his honesty of purpose in everything that he attempted to do in the way of legislation, as well as in his practice down in Philadelphia. I want to repeat that I am not half able to express how I feel and what I know of Charlie Roney. I think of all the young men I knew he was one that stood out as a splendid specimen of American manhood. I think I can recite just two instances that will speak a great deal louder and better and truer than anything else I might say to this House. One happened about a month before he was taken sick. One of the judges in Philadelphia told me this in his private chamber and he started out along these lines. He said "My, my, but you have a fine lot of young fellows associated with your cause here in this city." If there is any egotism about this talk, gentlemen, it is not meant to be so. He said, "I had a case before me recently and Charlie Roney represented the man, and the defendant pleaded guilty and he had served thirty days in prison. I called Charlie Roney up to the bar of the court and I said: 'This prisoner has served only thirty days, and I think I will discharge him; I think justice has been met, and I think I will discharge him.'" Charlie Roney was man enough to say, notwithstanding it was his case, "Your honor, I would not do that; this is a bad man; he has gon a bad record; and before you pass judgment on this sentence, it seems to be it would be a safer and better way to look into his character. I would say he should not have less than six months at least, whereby justice will be at least partly met." When the judge looked into the character of the defendant he gave him a year. I mention that to show you how honest he was; he would not let that judge be deceived notwithstanding it would have been to Charlie Roney's benefit to have allowed that defendant to go. This is one instance. Another instance when the Full Crew Bill was being considered here two years ago, I came up on the train with Charlie Roney and the first time in my life I had ever asked him to vote against a bill I said: "Charlie, some of my friends are interested in this full crew repealer. I would like to have your vote on it to-night. I would like to have you say a word for it." He said, "Senator, about a year ago in Scranton, I spoke before the Trainmen's Union. I told them then if there ever was an attempt made to repeal the Full Crew Bill I would stand with those men," and he said: "I think my word is as good as yours and I want to stand with them." He and I shook hands coming up those high stairs at the station on the proposition. When I got over in the Senate another fellow interested in the Full Crew repealer said, "Senator, how are your friends to-night on the Repealer?" "Well," I said, "Charlie Roney and Bill Wilson are against the Repealer." He said, "Send over and get Roney and talk him out of it." I said, "No, Roney thinks his word is as good as any other man's word, and I think so too, and I would not like to send for him." They sent over for him and I sat nearby and heard the conversation. He said, "I would like very much to please you in this matter, but I have given my word that I would stand for the trainmen when this Repealer came up and I cannot break my word." So that you see, gentlemen, you don't often find this kind of man and when you do find a brilliant, bright, clean, upstanding man such as was the case with Charles J. Roney, only a young man in life, you cannot help but appreciate it. I want to conclude by saying that in my twenty years here on the Hill I never saw his equal in this House or the other House, and I hope that the good young boy is in heaven.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair recognizes Mayor Miles B. Kitts of Erie, a former member of this House.

Mr. MILES B. KITTS. Mr. Chairman and gentlemen, on a sad occasion of this kind it is still some measure of pleasure that we former associates of Mr. Charles J. Roney have in rising to testify to his sterling worth. To have known him was to have loved him. It was a pleasure to have known Mr. Roney in this Legislature, and I imagine that it was a pleasure to the fellow citizens of his city and the members of the Bar Association of Philadelphia to have associated themselves with him.

Mr. Roney was honest, courteous, kind, brilliant, eloquent and forceful; many a member has profited by his kind counsels on the floor of this Assembly and in the committee rooms of this House. His whole ambition, it seems to me, was to be kind and to be useful. Rather than deceive you I believe he would have given his very life.

But a short time ago he walked among us; talked with us, spoke to us and counselled with us. It is very fitting at this time, Mr. Chairman, that we pay tribute to the memory of such a sterling young man as was Charles J. Roney. It seems that the hand of fate struck him down in the early days of his life.

There is a Reaper whose name is Death,
And with his sickle keen,
He reaps the bearded grain at a breath,
And the flowers that grow between.

I am very glad—indeed I am happy, in the sad occasion of this evening, to say as a citizen of Pennsylvania that we knew and admired Charles J. Roney. I was very closely associated with him in two sessions of this Legislature. He was the same sterling fellow day after day. It made no difference whether you were with him or against him, his honesty and his character shown out day after day.

I can remember no young man in all my acquaintances and in all my associates in whom I had more confidence and with whom in those short months that I was in the Assembly I had closer associations. And to the young men of this Commonwealth it seems that the character and example set by Charles Roney ought to be a guiding star to shape the character of the coming generations of this Commonwealth.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair recognizes the Speaker of the House, Richard J. Baldwin.

SPEAKER RICHARD J. BALDWIN. Mr. Chairman and fellow members, it makes us all feel sad on such an occasion as this. Time rolls on and the vacant seats grow in number. But such is life. This is Nature's law. We all have an opportunity in life to make ourselves felt and to do that which meets with the approval and admiration of our friends and our neighbors and those with whom we come in contact. Death is not the loss of he who goes over the great divide; the loss is felt by those who were his associates and those with whom he mingled, and the greatest loss is felt in the immediate household. While we who served in this House with Charles J. Roney of Philadelphia learned to love him, as a friend, learned to like him as a co-worker, learned to appreciate his honesty, learned to have a high regard for the high standard of character that he demonstrated as our friend, as our co-worker in a great legislative body for a great empire.

Like many, no doubt, that sit here to-night, representing this great Commonwealth, he started from the humbler walks of life. It is from out and amongst a great multitude that Charles J. Roney rose up to become one of the legislators for a great empire. While we all learned to love him, to-night I cannot help but think of the sorrow indeed that must have been felt in that family by a partner for life in a wife who is a magnificent woman; children bound up by the ties of fraternalism to such a noble father; indeed, he must have left a sorrowing home—we know that he was more dear to them than us, and it is to them we send our great sympathy. We meet here to-night so that the proceedings of this gathering may go down on the records of this great Commonwealth so that future generations may know that from an humble birth there rose a boy, a man, who made his mark in the world and had not lived in vain. He is an example of what integrity and energy in a great State like Pennsylvania can accomplish. It is an illustration of the opportunities of this grand, free republic that we live in. I have served in this legislative body for several sessions; I have come in close contact, indeed, with several hundreds of men that have been selected by the people of this great Commonwealth to legislate for them, but from among all of these in these twenty years past I have never met a more lovable character; indeed, I have never come in contact with a man in whom I had greater confidence and I had opportunity to know Charles J. Roney well because not only did I work with him ofttimes in harmony, aiming for the same objects in these legislative halls, but ofttimes have I found myself crossing swords with him and learned that I had an opponent of the very best. But in the committees, where we really learned to find out what is in a man, I found out that he was one of the ablest men whom I had come in contact with in my legislative experience—none stood above him in my regard. Charles J. Roney, of the Third District of the great city of Philadelphia, leaves in my memory the fond recollection of a rare and valued friend who made the world the better for his having been one of and amongst us. Peace to his dust, and sympathy to all whom made up his home ties.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Schuylkill, Mr. Palmer.

Mr. PALMER. Mr. Chairman, two years ago it was my pleasure to stand on this floor at the closing hours of that session and say to the men who were members here that "we have had our differences, we have disagreed but goodwill has survived on such misforutne and bound us with knots of flowers, and no power can ever break an iron chain that is bound with knots of flowers," and in that chain and one of the most important links, our chain of flowers and sweet remembrances, stands out the name of Charles J. Roney. I can see him as if it were yesterday. I can recall when I first came here how I waited to hear the men who were members of this Assembly talk and see what power they had toward swaying the members toward their side of the question and I do not remember, Mr. Chairman, of any man in the last Assembly who was as eloquent a talker as Charles J. Roney. I have in my time, in my short experience, heard men who understood better the foundations of oratory, who had by trials or some strong suffering which occurred in their lives become more eloquent, but I never in my life witnessed a man who, from a practical oratorical standpoint, or from the standpoint of perhaps a future eminence had more of the makeup of the real orator in him than had this beloved colleague from Philadelphia, our dear, dead friend, and to attempt the duty of eulogizing him is one which affects me with anxious modesty and full emotion.

The living form of Charles Roney no longer graces the seat of honor in this assemblage but the inspiration of his spirit survives throughout its length and breadth and the souls of all his comrades encircle as with an ocean of love that tomb that contains all that is left of him. No eloquence could find voice for the feelings which spring up within my bosom at this consecrated time, feelings of grief at his loss, reverence for his character, pride in his glory, gratitude for his service and thankfulness for his life. When I heard that Charles Roney had crossed the river I felt that there went up from the City of Philadelphia if they knew him as I knew that they must know him, the wailing voices of thousands of its people who mourned the loss of friend and guide, but I felt that upon the ear of Christian faith there broke another strain, the jubilant anthem of everlasting peace in sounding welcome from choral seraphim. "Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord. They rest from their labors and their works do follow them."

"Let us think that his dying eyes read a mystic meaning which only the rapt and parting soul may know; let us believe that in the silence of the receding world he heard the great waves breaking on the further shore and felt already upon his wasted brow the breath of the eternal morning."

The CHAIRMAN. The Chairman recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Beyer.

Mr. BEYER. Mr. Chairman and gentlemen of the House, if ever I deplored the poverty of speech and that faculty for a timely and appropriate expression of sentiment dear to our hearts, it is on this occasion when I rise to do justice to my colleague and friend. I wish I had the power to present Charlie Roney in a manner that would do him justice. Those of us who were with him in his legislative work in the last session have before us and will continue to have before us the pleasing memory of his countenance, his smiling reception when greeted by members of this House or invited into some discussion of its business.

Charlie Roney was to my mind a truly great man, for he had within him the elements of real manhood, that ruggedness of character that comes from a solid foundation, a fortunate birth of happy ancestry. He was above all men I ever came in contact with one of the noblest examples of American opportunity because he, like many more who have come into this place to do their duty and to represent a constituency in this Commonwealth, came from the humbler walks of life, from that class of people of which Lincoln used to say "The Lord must have been most fond because he made so many of them." He came, if you please, from the same kind of a foundation that Lincoln did. In early life he was compelled to struggle and to work, although not born in absolute poverty or want and blessed with devoted parents who shared with him ambitions and in every manner and way assisted him, yet he was from the manner of his birth and the parents who looked after his interests made to work and to look into the future with the ruggedness that afterwards showed itself so splendidly in his eloquence upon the floor of this House. Charlie Roney was a man of courage, a man who saw his duty and had the courage and manhood to face that duty. Although I have differed with him, as many others did in the last session of this legislative body, there never was a moment of time that I did not share his absolute confidence and respect, and as a fellow lawyer at the Philadelphia bar, some years older than he and at the bar some years longer than he, I had the good fortune to see him rise from the mere stripling of a lawyer to the mighty power that he was in the Courts of Quarter Sessions and the Courts of Common Pleas of my native county.

I remember now, as I speak, of an incident some years ago before I ever had the honor of coming to this assembly, sitting in the office of a member of this House, who, as a colleague of his, joined in the work that they had to do in this chamber, a lawyer of some standing at the bar of Philadelphia, and as I walked into his office and was greeted by these gentlemen and sat there for a few moments and heard them discuss the work that was cut out for them to do the following day, that it was with pleasure that I listened to the discussion between these gentlemen and after the discussion was over and Charlie Roney left the room this lawyer said to me: "Fred, there is a coming man;" and I believe that the prophecy of this eminent lawyer would surely have been fulfilled in even greater measure than it was had the good Lord spared our colleague for further usefulness and service in this House. He represented that courage and that manhood which the nation to-day and this Commonwealth stands so much in need of, the real, rugged substantial manhood. He had the heart of a child and yet he had a ruggedness and a force of manhood that made the childish heart of him all the more noble, all the purer, all the grander, all the more appealing to our sense of friendship when we grasped his hand in honest tribute to his manhood.

I see now as I stand in this chamber the battles that passed before me in the last session. How courageously he stood by his friend Mr. Wilson in every measure he had brought into this House. How he had the courage at all times to stand up and battle for bills at times when others failed in their courage to stand up and speak the truth. He had the real courage of which men are made,—that character of courage which builds up the state and which furnishes to the nation in time of war the soldier who stands on the field of battle. But peace, my friends, has her victories no less than war. There are times in the pleasant moments of peace when courage is required to rise above the petty strifes and turmoils of human life. He had that courage. I saw him in the courts of quarter sessions when judges impatient at times restlessly upon the bench were endeavoring to silence the advocate, but he stood every inch of his ground in appealing for justice and the enforcement of the law, as has been so eloquently said in the early part of this discussion here to-night. He had the character of manhood of which we might well be proud, and which we might take for ourselves as an example to follow in the future. As a member of the Municipal Corporations Committee in the last session, I think my good friend Mr. Glass and I were perhaps the most active. Mr. Roney was a member of that committee, but he had been assigned to other work, and was frequently absent from the meetings and deliberations of this particular committee because he was needed elsewhere. While my good friend Glass and I enjoyed ourselves to the full measure with the conduct of the work in this committee, I want to say to you, however, there never was a moment of time that our enjoyment rose to the highest pitch as it did when the door opened and little Charley Roney walked in and gave us a few words in his usual earnest spirit in support of or against some measure on the table then before us. He was a man whom men could love, because he was ready at all times to give and take. He was a man whom the court was bound to respect in his pleadings as an advocate, because he stood unflinchingly in defense of the rights of his client. Not only, gentlemen, was this advocate forcible in the appeals that he made in the courts of justice of our county, but he was more than forcible and persistent in the manner in which he addressed himself to his clients. I had the good fortune a little time before his death to be associated with him in the trial of an important homicide case in Philadelphia. We traveled together to the county prison and the cell door of the prison was swung open and we were allowed to go inside and sit there and listen to the prisoner's story. But it did not ring true into Charley Roney's ears, and it required but the thought of a moment to bring from this prisoner's mind, by the forcible and incisive questioning that Roney hurled into his ears, the truthful narration of what actually did occur, and it resulted, by virtue of the truth then told, in a victory at the bar which otherwise could never have been accomplished had he permitted the prisoner's lies to remain ringing in our ears when the conversation first was opened. I say, therefore, that the State of Pennsylvania has lost one of its noblest citizens; this House has lost a useful member; the party to which he belonged has lost a most able advocate in the support of its principles. It might well be regretted that he was unfortunate enough not to have had the honor before his death to feel that he might join with his companions here again and render the signal service which he so well rendered to his native state and to the honor and glory and credit of his family. But now that he has gone, now that we have naught but the memory that lingers I can only leave with you as I leave these parting thoughts, the words of the poet who said:

"Slowly and sadly we laid him down
From the field of his fame fresh and gory,
We carved not a line, we raised not a stone,
But we left him alone with his glory."

CHAIRMAN FLYNN. The question is on the adoption of the resolution offered by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Cox.

The resolution was unanimously adopted.

Whereupon,

The CHAIRMAN declared the meeting adjourned.

Our kind Heavenly Father, we are reminded by the signs of mourning upon the empty chair of our beloved Senator, Charles J. Magee, that there has passed away from us another star into the galaxy of statesmen who have finished their earthly career. We had learned to love this young Senator; he was our colleague, our companion, our friend and our brother. We had learned to respect and admire him for his courage, his fearlessness, his will power and his loyalty; and we pray, our kind Heavenly Father, that Thy special blessings may be with his distinguished brother and other relatives whose hearts are broken and bruised because of the void that has come to them, that cannot be filled only by Thee. We pray Thy blessing also upon the bereaved family of the Secretary of Internal Affairs. May Thy blessing be with this body and with all the people of our great Commonwealth. We ask in our Saviour's name. Amen.

In the House of Representatives, March 12, 1917.

Whereas, The National Administration has been embarrassed and hampered in the conduct of the foreign affairs of the nation by the acts of certain Senators of the United States in refusing authority to the President to protect the lives and property of American citizens on high seas,

Therefore, Be it resolved (if the Senate concur) by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that it is the sense of this body that the Senators and Representatives of Pennsylvania in the Congress of the United States should cordially and heartily support the National Administration in all efforts to protect the lives and property of Americans upon the high seas from submarine attacks as now made; that President Wilson is to be commended for taking a firm stand against those barbarous methods of warfare which must necessarily cause the death of men, women and children; and that the manhood and resources of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania are hereby pledged to the National Government to the end that the safety of the citizens of the United States, working and traveling upon the high seas, may be preserved and the dignity and honor of the United States maintained.

The PRESIDENT. Does the Senator from Cambria, Mr. Tompkins, insist upon a roll call?

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. President, I see no reason why this resolution should not be acted upon at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Does the Senator from Cambria, Mr. Tompkins, insist upon a roll call?

RESOLUTION PROVIDING FOR THE APPOINTMENT OF A COMMITTEE TO PREPARE AND DRAFT FOR INTRODUCTION AT THE PRESENT SESSION OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY A BILL TO PROVIDE FOR MILITARY TRAINING IN THE COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA.

Mr. C. A. SNYDER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. SNYDER offered the following resolution, which was twice read:

In the Senate, March 19, 1917.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That five members of the Senate, to be appointed by the President pro tempore, and seven members of the House of Representatives, to be appointed by the Speaker, are hereby constituted a Legislative Committee to prepare and draft for introduction at the present session of the General Assembly, a bill to provide for military training in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Mr. C. A. SNYDER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions to be referred to the proper committees, be dispensed with, in order that the resolution may be considered at this time, and I give for my reasons the following:

The several states of this nation are considering measures for the training of the youth of the country in the public school or some other appropriate place. As there is considerable division how this should be done, in order that no particular mind may be presented on a bill of this kind, and that the responsibility may be imposed upon the whole legislature, I thought it proper before presenting a bill of this kind that a resolution should be presented so that the House and Senate should take the responsibility, if they thought proper to consider this question of military training, and present a bill in due time, so that the Senate and House can act upon it if they see proper. Now in support of that, while I do not believe Pennsylvania should follow any state, because I believe we should be first, but we cannot always be first for the reason that our meetings are different. I still think that the great Commonwealth of Pennsylvania should take action upon a question so grave, and especially since the State of New York has recently enacted a bill for military training of its youth in the public schools, which has been approved by the Governor, I think we should be in a position to at least consider at this session, whether we pass it or not, and for that reason I ask that the Senate vote favorably upon this resolution.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

Which was committed to the Committee on Law and Order.

Mr. J. F. GRAFF. Mr. President, for the benefit of the Senate, and fearing there might be a remote possibility that this bill may not reappear on the floor of the Senate, I would like to state that this is what is known as the "Anti-Treating Bill." A condition exists in my district where one of the judges refuses to permit treating, whilst the judge in the other county permits it. You know the Brooks law is a law that is capable of the most elasticity of any law that is on our statute books and this is to correct one of those features giving the judge a free hand, to restrain this primary department of drunkenness under this bill and so as to prevent the school of crime under the bill. Therefore, I think that this bill should be considered by the committee and reported out at the present time.

Mr. C. A. SNYDER. Mr. President, I would like to amend that speech by saying that I would move an amendment to that, that the man who treats gives notice to everybody about the place that he is going to do it. That I think would be a penalty.

Resolved, That the Economy and Efficiency Commission be and it is hereby requested to make an investigation of the duties of the above-mentioned officers and employes of the Senate for the purpose of ascertaining whether all the above employes are necessary in order that the business of this body may be transacted efficiently, or whether in the interest of economy a reduction could not be made in said force of employes or in the salaries paid them, and that a report to the Senate be made not later than March 26, 1917.

Mr. LEIBY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions to be referred to the proper committee, be dispensed with, in order that the resolution may be considered at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. EYRE. Mr. President, I move that the resolution be referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. CROW. Mr. President, I see no reason why this resolution should not be disposed of at this time if the Senator from Chester, Mr. Eyre, will withdraw his motion, and the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. McNichol, will withdraw his second. I think the resolution should be voted upon and voted down now. We can dispose of it as easily at this time as any other time.

Mr. EYRE. Mr. President, it appears to me that the Committee on Appropriations and every member of the committee is anxious to save every dollar that can be properly saved to the Commonwealth, and it does appear to me that the Appropriations, better than any other committee of this Senate, can act intelligently and report within a very few days on this resolution. Therefore, I offer the motion in absolutely good faith in order that the Committee on Appropriations might report intelligently on the resolution and report in favor of saving money to the Commonwealth, if it can be done without injury to the proceedings of this Senate.

Mr. CROW. Mr. President, understand, I have no objection whatever to an investigation of this subject but I cannot see where the Economy and Efficiency Commission has anything whatever to do with this body. If there are too many employes here, it is a subject for investigation by the Senate itself, and the Economy and Efficiency Commission has nothing whatever to do with it, and on that ground I submit that this resolution ought to be voted on now and voted down, because of the manner in which the resolution is framed.

Mr. C. A. SNYDER. Mr. President, before that motion is withdrawn by the gentleman from Chester, I want to sympathize with him in his purpose because I think there should be some inquiry as to how to cut down officers of this sort that are not necessary, and in order to do that, I think we ought to hear from the Committee on Ways and Means of the House of Representatives at Washington, who as we all know, have cut down a large number of employes of the administration at Washington during the last four years. They could give us some pointers on it and it would be a wise thing to refer it to them in order that they could cut down the expenses of the Legislature.

Mr. EYRE. Mr. President, it occurs to me that the remarks of the distinguished gentleman from Fayette offer all the more reason why this resolution should be given consideration. It is not necessary, if the Committee on Appropriations, in their wisdom, see fit to amend or to make recommendations thereon, that they should report it out as sent to them, they can do it if they please, and if in their wisdom they believe that some of the places can be spared that are now on the roll, they can undoubtedly so recommend.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

It was not agreed to.

Mr. LEIBY. Mr. President. I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions to be referred to the proper committee, be dispensed with, in order that the resolution may be considered at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

It was not agreed to.

Mr. LEIBY. Mr. President, I ask that the yeas and nays be taken.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Dauphin will state his point of order.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. Mr. President, my point of order is, that the Chair having announced his decision, the call for yeas and nays came too late.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair decides that the point of order raised by the Senator from Dauphin, Mr. Beidleman, is well taken.

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION REGARDING THE HIGH COST OF FOOD.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, I move that the resolution reported this evening from the Committee on Judiciary Special, known as the Glass Resolution, be considered at this time.

Mr. CROW. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The resolution as amended was read as follows:

A Concurrent Resolution providing for a commission to investigate and report the increase in the cost of foodstuffs and other necessaries of life and to investigate the possibilities through marketing and other facilities of the reduction in the present cost of living; empowering said commission to issue subpoenas and providing for the attendance of witnesses, and the penalty for failure to obey such subpoenas; empowering said commission to work and co-operate with like commissions of adjoining States.

Be it Resolved by the House of Representatives (if the Senate concur), That a commission consisting of two members of the Senate and three members of the House of Representatives shall be appointed by the Governor of this Commonwealth, to serve without compensation, to investigate and report the cause or causes of the increase in the cost of food-stuffs and other necessaries of life. Said commission shall have power to work an co-operate with like commissions from adjoining States, and shall, in any manner in which it may deem advisable, thoroughly investigate the possibilities through marketing and other facilities of the reduction in the present cost of food-stuffs and other necessaries of life, and said commission shall not be limited in any manner whatsoever in its investigation; said commission shall report to the present session of the Legislature.

For the purpose of enabling said commission to carry out and perform its duties, the said commission shall have the right to sit in any part of this Commonwealth; and shall have power to compel the attendance of witnesses, and the production of books, papers, and other evidence, at the meeting of the commission, and for that purpose may issue subpoenas, signed by the president of the commission, and cause the same to be served and executed in any court of this Commonwealth; and if any witness shall refuse to testify any fact within his knowledge, or to produce any books or papers within his possession or under his control the secretary of the commission shall forthwith report the facts of such refusal to the court of common pleas of the county wherein such witness resides, or wherein his attendance was required, and all questions arising upon such refusal shall at once be heard by said court. If the court determines that the testimony or evidence required by such witness is legal and properly competent and ought to be given or produced by him or her, then said court shall make an order commanding such witness to testify or produce books or papers or both, as the case may be; and if such witness shall thereafter refuse to testify or to produce books or papers, as aforesaid, in disobedience of such order of the court, then the said court shall have power to order the recommitment of such witness to the county jail of the proper county for contempt.

The said commission shall have power to call upon the Attorney General for such legal advice as it may require.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. President, I would certainly like to have some explanation as to the purport of the resolution before the Senate, because from the reading of it there are certainly some drastic paragraphs that require some explanation on the part of some Senators.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, for the benefit of the gentlemen of the Senate, this resolution was drawn by a lawyer, a member of the House, for the purpose of making an investigation of the high cost of food stuffs. The resolution passed the House unanimously and came over here and was amended to suit the Committee on Judiciary Special, of which our friend, the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. McNichol, is a member, and reported out, and that is all I know about the bill. If there is anything too drastic in the bill I am willing that it be cut out. I have no personal interest in it whatever.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. President, not being at the meeting of the Committee on Judiciary Special when this resolution was considered, I am absolutely unable to give any details as to what took place at the meeting, but when a question so momentous as the food problem of to-day is taken up by two or three members of the House or Senate of this Commonwealth, to report back in the next six or seven weeks, the ridiculousness of the proposition makes me hesitate to vote for it, because it is a problem that is confronting practically the entire world; and if there can be any solution of the high cost of living to-day in the State of Pennsylvania I am of course as ready as one of the inhabitants of the Commonwealth to co-operate, but to say to this Senate that we shall appoint a committee with all the power detailed in that resolution without even a dollar, to be roaming around the Commonwealth for the purpose of investigating conditions, without any result that is going to be a benefit, I of course want to record my vote in opposition simply to be consistent with the absolute impossibility to ascertain any facts that will be a benefit to anyone in this Commonwealth.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, I want to repeat, I don't even know what is in the resolution and so that the Senator from Philadelphia may be fully satisfied as to what he is going to vote on when it comes before this body. I move that the resolution be referred to the Committee on Judiciary Special, with a request that it be amended to suit our friend and reported here at to-morrow's session.

Mr. CROW. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION PLEDGING SUPPORT TO NATIONAL GOVERNMENT.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now proceed to the consideration of Resolution No. 8 of the House of Representatives as amended.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The resolution as amended was read as follows:

Whereas The National Administration has been embarrassed and hampered in the conduct of the Foreign Affairs of the Nation

Therefore Be it resolved (if the Senate concur) by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that it is the sense of this body that the Senators and Representatives of Pennsylvania in the Congress of the United States should cordially and heartily support the National Administration in all efforts to protect the lives and property of Americans upon the high seas from submarine attacks as now made that President Wilson is to be commended for taking a firm stand against those barbarous methods of warfare which must necessarily cause the death of men women and children and that the manhood and resources of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania are hereby pledged to the National Government to the end that the safety of the citizens of the United States working and traveling upon the high seas may be preserved and the dignity and honor of the United States maintained

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

It was agreed to.

Ordered. That the Clerk return the same to the House of Representatives, with the information that the Senate has passed the same with amendment in which the concurrence of the House is requested.

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 228 (House Bill No. 1), entitled

An Act making an appropriation to the Highway Department and providing for the construction and improvement of part of a certain State highway located in the County of Armstrong.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to

On the question

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. J. F. GRAFF. Mr. President, this is a bill that affects my county alone. It is a bill that specifically appropriates certain moneys which have already been appropriated to our county to be used on State-aid roads. This bill appropriates the money to be used on an exclusively State road. The author of this bill has attempted to make it appear that I am opposed to this bill. He has importuned a number of the members of this body: he has solicited them and made it strong, even put it so strong as to mean his life or death. I do not know exactly what he means by this, unless it would mean his political life or death. That, however, will be reviewed by his constituents, were he ever to run for office again in the County of Armstrong, and be decided by them. I wish to put myself right before this body, that I object to men of the House of Representatives coming here and soliciting members in such a way as to throw upon the Senators from their particular districts a sort of discredit. I object to this mode of procedure and yet at the same time I want every Senator in this body out of consideration for me, and in courtesy to me, to vote for this bill and pass it unanimously.

Mr. C. A. SNYDER. Mr. President, I have no interest in this bill, except so far as it will help the Commonwealth to construct good highways. I hold no brief for any member of the House of Representatives. I do think, however, that it is just to the gentleman who solicited votes upon the floor of the Senate in favor of this bill to say that when I was asked to support this bill I was asked to support a bill that the Senator from Armstrong, Mr. Graff, was in favor of, and to help him to pass the bill. When I was solicited to vote for the bill, I wish to assure the Senator from Armstrong, that there was no thought of any political inquest later on; in fact it was done to help the Senator from Armstrong. I do not believe that a Senator should permit another Senator to be in error, and so far as I am concerned, the Senator from Armstrong is in error about what was said by the man who solicited the votes in favor of this bill.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows:

The SPEAKER (Richard J. Baldwin) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

Rabbi Louis J. Haas offered the following prayer:

O Lord, Thou who rulest the universe and the destinies thereof, we invoke Thy blessing upon this session of this legislative body. We invoke Thy blessing upon its members, upon those who have assembled here to consider the welfare of the men, women and children of this broad and spacious Commonwealth. Impress upon them the fact that theirs is neither an easy nor simple task, but one of great responsibility and extreme obligation. Impress upon them the sacredness of the mission upon which they have been sent to these legislative halls, and the importance, yea, the necessity of devoting their whole mind, their whole heart and their whole soul to the duties and tasks assigned unto them.

Inspire these legislators to consider earnestly and zealously the requirements and needs of our Commonwealth, and enable them to enact a constructive program of legislation. Cause them to consider and always place foremost in their proceedings and deliberations the interests of their constituents. Cause them to consider the extreme power vested in them by legislation. Cause them to take advantage of the many opportunities to advance and further the interests of this great and glorious Commonwealth. Help them to strive and aim ever for a bigger, better and a nobler Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Bestow Thy blessing upon the Governor and the officials, upon the Speaker of the House, upon the wives and families of the members of this legislative body, and upon all the citizens of this State.

In this critical hour, most gracious God, we pray most fervently for the welfare of our country. Send down Thy guidance and Thy wisdom upon the Chief Executive of our land. Guide him aright through Thine own good counsel. Be Thou a shield about him. Be Thou a shield about us. Remove from us every enemy, pestilence, sword, famine and sorrow. Remove from us and from before us every adversary, and also from behind us. Guard Thou our going out and our coming in, now and forever more. Amen.

This bill changes the license fee to two dollars yearly. All the provisions of the old bill are the same. The bill is one of the Philadelphia revenue bills.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE.

Mr. STADTLANDER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time House Bill No. 364, on page 7 of to-day's calendar bill on final passage postponed.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the consideration on final passage of House Bill No 364, entitled

An Act relative to the sale in bulk of the whole or a large part of the stock of merchandise and fixtures or merchandise or fixtures not in the ordinary course of business; providing certain requirements therefor and imposing certain duties upon the seller and buyer and making their violation a misdemeanor.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. BALDRIDGE. Mr. Speaker, I move the vote by which this bill passed third reading be reconsidered.

Mr. MILNER. Mr. Speaker I second the motion.

The motion was not agreed to.

On the question recurring.

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SIGGINS. Mr. Speaker, when this bill was last before the House I interrogated to some extent the sponsor of the bill, Mr. Stadtlander. Since that time and the placing of this bill on the postponed calendar I have examined it further and am satisfied in my own mind that it is a piece of very vicious legislation. The Bulk Sales Act of 1905 apparently answers its purpose satisfactorily. This bill, No. 364, places a burden upon the vendee on the purchase by sale in bulk which it seems to me should not be placed. The second section of the act provides for the giving of ten days' notice by the purchaser to the creditors of the vendor, does not place this requirement upon the vendor but upon the vendee. Section 3 provides that "whenever any person shall bargain for or purchase any stock of goods, fixtures, wares or merchandise of any kind in bulk," etc., "without paying or seeing to it that the purchase money of said property is applied to the payment of the bona fide claims of the creditors of the vendor pro rata as shown upon such verified statement," then the sale is fraudulent. In my opinion it places a burden upon the vendee which is very stringent and which will to a large extent stop the sale in bulk of small stores and small businesses. For that reason I shall vote against the bill.

Mr. STADTLANDER. Mr. Speaker, in defense of this bill, I want to say that the act of 1905 is ineffective. It does not provide for any penalties. The men who have been crooked in his dealings, has slipped through that act. This act has been very carefully prepared. It is the product of the minds of men who are engaged along that line of work. The act of 1905 provides for five days' notice. If a creditor lived on the coast of California five days notice was insuffcient time. The time has been extended, the present bill, I mean, extends the time to ten days, giving sufficient time to reach all parties. It further provides that the terms not expressly as stated in the contract, but the substance thereof, the consideration, shall be sent out to the creditors. This is a very wise provision, I can explain just in one brief moment exactly what occurred in my line of practice. I will give an illustration, not using exact sums. A goes to B and offers to sell his place of business. He is offered $10,000 for his place. B, the purchaser, sends out notices that he has purchased, as required by the act of 1905. A immediately goes to his creditors and he says: "I am securing $4,000 for the place." He has creditors to the amount of $6,000. He says, now if you will agree to compromise, I will pay 66 2-3 cents on the dollar. The creditors realizing that if they do not accept he will go into bankruptcy and they will possibly get 30 or 40 cents on the dollar, accept. The case came back to me and this is what happened. I was complimented by one of the creditors on the terms of the sale. He said, "You did a good piece of work." I asked, "Why?" "Why," he said, "we got 66 2-3 cents on the dollar, and we didn't expect it." I said "You were foolish. You could have gotten one hundred cents on the dollar." This act prevents crookedness in the line of sales in bulk.

Now the question of making the vendee the trutsee. I will say, that whenever creditors receive notice that a certain sale is taking place on a certain day, the creditors all appear and they take over the money if it pays one hundred cents on a dollar; if it does not, then all the creditors act as judge and jury and the vendee has nothing to do but follow the wishes of the creditors. If any of the creditors under this act shall refuse the sale is not consummated. Therefore I ask that every member in the House vote for this bill.

Mr. SIGGINS. Mr. Speaker, I should like to interrogate the sponsor of the bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Stadtlander, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. STADTLANDER. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. SIGGINS. Mr. Speaker, do I understand that it is the gentleman's opinion that the act of 1905 contains no penalty in case of fraudulent statements by the vendor.

Mr. STADTLANDER. Mr. Speaker, I think you will find that the decisions are to that effect; that it is inapplicable.

Mr. SIGGINS. Mr. Speaker, the act recites that he is guilty of a misdemeanor.

Mr. STADTLANDER. Mr. Speaker, under certain provisions of the act which he must follow, he sends out notices. If he has done that, that is all that is required under the act of 1905.

Mr. SIGGINS. Mr. Speaker, does not the act provide that he is guilty of a misdemeanor if he makes a false statement?

Mr. STADTLANDER. Mr. Speaker, if he makes a false statement, that is true

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Mr. SIMPSON. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up House Bill No. 282, File Folio 267, bills on third reading postponed.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the third third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 282, entitled

An Act to amend section ten of an act entitled "An Act creating the office of county controller in counties of this Commonwealth containing one hundred and fifty thousand inhabitants and over prescribing his duties and abolishing the office of county auditor in said counties" approved the twenty-fourth day of June Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WILLIAM DAVIS. Mr. Speaker, I fail to understand the purpose of the bill, for the reason that I see no advantage here in the protection of the taxpayer. This bill opens up the door of the present act, which was intended, and wisely intended and passed by this body for the purpose of protecting the taxpayer. Now, why should we open up the door here and allow the expenditure of one to five hundred dollars for publication. Is not that money just as good, and that sum just as valuable to the taxpayer, as any larger sum of money? The purpose of the controller is as a check upon the expenditure of the money of the taxpayer that is in the County Treasurer. Now, they propose here to remove that check. I certainly feel, Mr. Speaker, and members of this House, that this is absolutely wrong. What we want is to have more checks upon the County Treasury, and not open the doors that the money may flow therefrom without investigation or inspection. It is the duty of the County Controller to certify these bills; to know that that contract has been advertised; to know that the money has been wisely expended; to know that the lowest bidder within the county or without the county, who will perform the duties asked for in that contract shall receive that contract. I beg of you, gentlemen, that you vote against this measure and uphold the act now in force.

Mr. SIMPSON. Mr. Speaker, I just want to state that the gentleman clearly does not understand the conditions in the majority of the large counties or he would realize that the advertisement as now required by law for the purpose of letting a contract amounting to one hundred dollars, runs in the neighborhood of forty-six dollars, almost half the cost of the work. In Allegheny County there are hundreds of jobs for which there is absolutely no use in spending the taxpayers' money for the purpose of advertising that contract, because Allegheny County maintains her own road equipment, and the only people that can possibly bid on these jobs are people that have the machinery for the purpose of taking care of that equipment, and there is no use in the world to talk about advertising for a job of one hundred dollars to repair a machine that no person but the White people can repair,—and that is what this bill is for. So far as taking away the power of the Controller, my friend on the other side of the House is entirely mistaken. The only duty that the Controller has under the old act is to sit with the county commissioners for the sole, express purpose of opening the bids, and does not have a voice in the letting of that contract. He has the same voice under this act that he had under the old act. It grants him no greater powers and takes away from him none at all. Our county commissioners, gentlemen, ask this in order to save the taxpayers of Allegheny County thousand and thousands of dollars, needlessly expended for the sole, express purpose of telling the White or some manufacturing institution in Allegheny County to come in and repair the machine. We ask for the repeal of that one section, amending the section so as to give them the discretionary power they have now without paying the taxpayers' money out for useless advertising. I therefore appeal to you, gentlemen, in the name of the taxpayers of Allegheny County, to support this bill.

Mr. WILLIAM DAVIS. Mr. Speaker, then I would suggest that the bill be amended to read, "counties having a population of more than five hundred thousand," in order that the gentleman may have his bill passed; but I want to say that in my county we do not have such exorbitant taxation for publication as mentioned by the author of this bill. I would suggest that the bill be amended to read for those "counties having a population of five hundred thousand or more."

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. Speaker, this bill apparently has a two-fold purpose,—the first is the elimination of the necessity of advertising in the cases where the contracts are for less than five hundred dollars. This may or may not be commendable, but there is another purpose, and I would like to call the attention of the members of the House to line 8, page 2, in that bill, which says, "after due notice to be published by the controller when directed by the commissioners if he approve the purpose of the proposal invited." If he approve the purpose of the proposal You do not find that in the amendment. Under this amendment the controller is divested of every vestige of authority he now has, he is shorn of every possible power. Mark you, under this bill he not only has no authority for the disapproval of all bills under five hundred dollars, but he has absolutely no authority under any circumstances. He must advertise, and under a late decision of the court of common pleas in Washington County he has no other authority from any other source except from this particular section. We then have the anomalous condition of the County Controller drawing four thousand dollars a year with absolutely nothing to do and nothing to say. It seems to me this is dangerous legislation. I have examined the act and this act was taken from the act which created the office of Controller. I have examined that act and the only place he gets any power is from this section, and now it is to be taken away from the Controller. You know and I know that in the United States Congress we have a check upon legislation in the House of Representatives in the way of the Senate, and after that the President, having a veto power. The same is true in the State. More than that, in every borough and city we have a veto power, and that was the object of the original bill. Now we are going to take away that power and give the Controller absolutely nothing to do, and there will be no check whatever upon the county commissioners. Let me not be misunderstood. This not only takes away his power to veto all bills under five hundred dollars, but takes away every possible power of vetoing any kind of an act by the county commissioners. Therefore, I think it is bad legislation.

Mr. SIMPSON. Mr. Speaker, as I said in the beginning, this does not take away from the controller one iota of power. He has no voice in the letting of contracts even at the present time. He will have the same voice in the letting of the contracts after the passage of this bill that he has at the present time. I am not here for the purpose of trying to take away from the county controllers their right to supervise the payment of warrants.—none whatever. I am only asking that the county commissioners be allowed the privilege of letting contracts up to five hundred dollars without expending one-half of the people's money for advertisement. I say to you, gentlemen, that I have known the commissioners of Allegheny County for the past twenty years, and I have never known one of them that was not perfectly capable, upright and honest in every particular, and that power could be entrusted to any one of them. I fear that from what my learned friend from Cambria County says that he does not have the county commissioners in Cambria County that we have in Allegheny County. We have no fear but that they will act in the best interests of the taxpayers. They have joined with the controller in asking that this bill be passed. That I know because I consulted with both of them, and I believe that this bill is for the best interests of the taxpayers.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILLS ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 173, entitled

An Act to repeal an act entitled "An Act to give additional protection to wild birds and animals and game within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania; prohibiting the hunting for, or capture or killing, of such wild birds or animals or game by unnaturalized foreign-born residents; forbidding the ownership or possession of dogs by any unnaturalized foreign-born resident within the Commonwealth; and prescribing penalties for violation of its provisions," approved the first day of June, 1915 (P. L. 644).

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, there are many rural parts of Pennsylvania where the farms are becoming depopulated by our people moving to the towns and cities. Foreigners are now moving out on those farms, they are making good residents, good farmers, and they are raising good families. Under this Act of Assembly they are not allowed to own, control, or be in the possession of any dog. Under a prior Act of Assembly they are not allowed to have any guns. The result is that the young fellows from the cities go out and they eat their berries and their cherries and they commit all kinds of depredations and the poor foreign farmer is absolutely helpless. At the same time when this Act of Assembly was passed, by the session of 1915, there was a general act passed requiring that all dogs be assessed and taxed, and a tax paid thereon, and if the tax is not paid the constables kill the dogs, and it seems to me there is no reason why a foreigner residing on a farm should not have the same right to own and have a dog as an American citizen, providing he pays his tax and brings himself within the regulations of the Act of Assembly. I know of at least two cases where the wives were American born citizens, where the husband was prosecuted because the wife had a little pet dog. The husband was prosecuted because the dog was in his possession and he had to pay a fine. We cannot only make laws for the hunters and the sportsmen, but we must also do something to encourage agriculture and the people who are cultivating our rural sections, and it is for that reason, and also for the reason that a man who lives on a farm and operates the same, whether he is a foreigner or American born citizen, certainly ought to have the right to hunt on his own land which he cultivates, and this same Act of Assembly, in addition to forbidding him to have a dog, says that even though a foreigner cultivates a tract of land of two hundred acres, or one hundred, is not allowed to kill a rabbit on his own land, whether he owns the farm or is a tenant on it, and the other fellows come there and snap away the game in front of his very face. I know that there has been some opposition and some lobbying against this bill, and it is for that reason I desire to explain the purpose of this repealer.

Mr. CROW. Mr. President, there are a great many rural sections in Pennsylvania that are in a very different position from the condition described by the Senator from Lehigh. This act was originally passed, not only to protect the game conditions in the State, but to protect the sheep industry as well. It is a matter of common knowledge that the sheep industry has practically been destroyed in the State of Pennsylvania by reason of the fact that unowned curs are kept in large numbers, and that sheep are destroyed with but a measure of compensation and in that way the industry has entirely gone out of existence. Now there is a movement all over the State to restore that industry and the destruction of the worthless cur is absolutely necessary for that to be made a success. I think it would be a step backward if this act were to be repealed and I sincerely hope that the legislation proposed here will not pass. It would be a step backward and the progress that has been made in the last two or three years would be wiped out.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, I would like to add a word or two to what Senator Crow has said in reference to the sheep industry. Down near Ambler, where I have my summer home, there are lots of splendid farms all around there and there is also a settlement of foreigners nearby, where every family seems to have one or two dogs and the sheep industry in that neighborhood, where it used to be well conducted, is entirely extinct now. It seems to me Senator Schantz is right so far as a man should have a gun to protect his own crops and his own place, whether he is a foreigner or otherwise, but that would not justify him in having a lot of dogs running all over the State and as Senator Crow has well said, crippling and in fact killing the entire sheep industry.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. President, I think it is a sad commentary upon the employes of the State of Pennsylvania, the condition described in the remarks of the Senator from Fayette, that it is almost impossible to prevent such an onslaught against the sheep and other animals in the State, that we are paying out millions of dollars for agents going throughout the State of Pennsylvania yearly and we are told they are absolutely unable to prevent the destruction of a certain industry, sheep raising, throughout the State. If we want to make it a preventative measure why not include and incorporate all citizens of the State of Pennsylvania and not specially the foreign-born, because after all it is the unnaturalized citizens who by the treatment that is received by them and accorded to them in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, will in the future become the citizenship of this great State; and what we can do to foster, develop and encourage them is much more to the interest and welfare of the Commonwealth than the industry referred to as sheep raising and things of that kind. I trust that the State of Pennsylvania at this time, and more particularly at this time, will show to the unnaturalized citizen some hope and measure of compensation to reward them for coming here, and we certainly do need them in the future of this Commonwealth.

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, as I have said, there was another Act of Assembly passed regulating the ownership and possession of all dogs by the Session of 1915, the same session which passed this act, and that act protects the sheep industry, and I have never before heard that a dog when owned by a foreigner was more vicious than when owned by an American citizen, and I do not see why the dogs of the foreigners are such a detriment to sheep and not the dogs of Americans. We need uniformity in legislation and the treatment of all people alike. It is this kind of discrimination which makes anarchists and socialists. I say when two foreigners live side by side and do the same kind of work and have the same breed of dogs their dogs ought to be on the same level and treated under the same legislation.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Our Father who art in Heaven, we Thy children gather at Thy feet this morning to begin the day with Thee. We seek a Father's blessing before we go forth.

Give us grace to meet the temptations and meet them victoriously.

Teach us to do Thy will and mark not our iniquities against us.

May we not grieve Thee by our heedlessness, our unbelief or our disobedience.

Cause us to be faithful in all our duties and skillful in our calling.

Help us to glorify Thee in the work of our hands.

We pray for all for whom it is our duty to intercede. Have mercy upon these. Receive us now into Thy care as we go our way into the unknown experiences of the day. Grant that the miracles of nature may keep us close to Thee, and save us all. Amen.

Section 4 All acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are repealed

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?
It was agreed to.
On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. HEFFERNAN. Mr. Speaker, the bill that you are called upon to-day to vote on, is one that I am sure is going to appeal to the fair minded men of the men of this House. If there have been any reports going through this House, that this bill refers to other than cities of the first class, that report is wrong. This bill refers only to the City of Philadelphia. During the Blankenburg administration in Philadelphia, the police and firemen of our city were relieved from the responsibilities of paying assessments from the small salaries that they received. It is not for me to tell you gentlemen of this House what the responsibilities of the police and firemen are. Only a short time ago you voted for a bill that was known as the "Two Platoon System Bill," and that was for the purpose of relieving the firemen of certain responsibilities they have had. You men know what awful risks there is in the position that is occupied by a policeman and fireman. You know that there are men, firemen, who leave their homes to go to their duties; and I know of personal instances of personal friends, members of the fire department, who when they bid good-night to their families were never seen alive again as a result of the hazardous work which they are called upon to perform. That same thing applies to the policemen. I do not think that when you take into consideration the awful responsibility of a policeman and fireman that we should ask them to go through their respective divisions wherein they live asking for votes for any ward leader. I do not think that they should be compelled to pay any assessments from their salaries which are much needed by their families. I believe that this bill should pass, and I am going to ask the men of this House to favor me by voting for it.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. Speaker, if the merit of this bill was as worthy as the author, I would accede to his last request made and vote for it. But, gentlemen of the House, the purposes of this bill are not to protect the lives of the firemen. They are not to protect the lives of the policemen, but it is a direct attempt to cast reflection upon the present administration in Philadelphia, to send broadcast throughout this entire State the news that in order that the administration of Philadelphia will conduct itself properly legislation of this kind must be enacted. If you gentlemen will read the provisions of this bill, you will see that it is drastic in the extreme. So much so that any man that would ask his neighbor to support a man on a ticket because that man was worthy of support, would be judged as being politically active and could be prosecuted and be imprisoned for three months or pay one hundred dollars fine. You men believe in the right of free speech; you men believe that because a man occupies a position that his rights of citizenship should not be taken away from him. We in Philadelphia, gentlemen, recognize the purposes of this bill because there may be a factional difference. The men in Philadelphia will tell you that the police have not been active in politics for over six or seven years. The present Chief Executive of the City of Philadelphia has promised the people that the police will not be active in politics. There is absolutely no reason for the enactment of this legislation, it is simply a reflection on the present administration. If this bill was a bill that was broad in its purposes, that took in every part of the State, the charges that I make could not be made, but you gentlemen know that there is a feature in this bill of which any unscrupulous politician might take advantage. You take a man connected with either the police or fire department, and if he were to stop on the corner and speak to his neighbor and discuss a candidate's pledges or discuss the platform of a party and would recommend that John Smith or John Jones be supported, if Simpson, who is running against Smith or Jones, were to hear of that, he could prefer a charge of the violation of the provisions of this act and many a worthy policeman or fireman would lose his position. Is it a fair proposition to say that because a man is a fireman or a policeman that he is to be denied the right to recommend whatever candidate he sees fit? There are ample laws on the statute books to-day that prevent the approach of a policeman to within fifty feet of the polls unless called to suppress a disorder. I sumbit, gentlemen, that the only meritorious feature connected with this bill is the name of the author. Do not be swayed by a personality, even by a personality of a man like Dr. Heffernan who introduced this bill, because he is away above the purposes of the bill. I would ask the members of this House to vote down this bill..

Mr. STERN. Mr. Speaker, I am particularly interested in the favorable consideration of this bill by the House, because the district which I represent contains about one hundred thousand foreigners. In that district, very much contrary to the statements of the previous speaker, we have had the unseemly exhibition of police activity in politics. It goes without saying that neither I nor any other citizen in that district would prevent any man from using his constitutional prerogatives of voting and using his franchise as he sees fit, whether he be a policeman or fireman. But the moral effect of the actions of the policemen and firemen who are dressed in uniforms wtih brass buttons—and I challenge my good friend from Philadelphia to prove the contrary—of being inside the booths and on top of ballot boxes, persuading and dissuading and using unlawful and illegal methods to prevent voting, is very detrimental to the citizens of Philadelphia. This bill only affects Philadelphia and I want to say right now that I have not had the opportunity to denounce it and I am glad of the opportunity given me in speaking on this bill. Much to the shame of the late administration of Philadelphia, its venerable mayor, on election day, because his former director of public safety was a candidate for mayor, placed the police in the voting booths of almost every downtown district in Philadelphia. About seven o'clock on election day in 1915, right before we elected our mayor, at seven o'clock in the morning I had the pleasure of going to the booth to cast my vote. I found two policemen inside the rail. I remonstrated with them and told them that they must keep at least fifty feet—or maybe a hundred, I don't know the exact number of feet—from the rail. They said they had orders to be there because they had received word there would be disorder. In that district we have not had a single arrest or a bit of trouble for a year or two. I went to the office of the director of the department of public safety then appointed, a fake reformer, and I told him he had no right to put the police in the polls on election day, that it was contrary to the statutes and the spirit of American manhood. He said, "We have had advance information that there would be disorder." I challenged him to produce the evidence. He said, "That is enough, we are told that there may be disorder and the police will stay there," and they did until the polls closed. I submit, Mr. Speaker, that this bill only affects Philadelphia, and it is no more than fair and square to the police themselves and to the firemen, who being at the beck and call of a superior officer, are told to go in and run the risk of violating the law. It is no more than right to vote for this bill. I want to say further that this bill does not prevent a man from using his constitutional right of voting, but only prevents him from disobeying the law, and you cannot make it too drastic for a district of the kind that I represent. I would therefore ask the favorable consideration of the bill.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelpha, Mr. Stern, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. STERN. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman that notwithstanding the presence of the police in the booths on that election day, what was the majority at the polls in that district for the regular Republican ticket?

Mr. STERN. Mr. Speaker, I would say it was about two thousand.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. Speaker, that shows that the police did not abuse their powers.

Mr. JEFFERSON W. SMITH. Mr. Speaker, I live in a district that contains possibly from seventy-five thousand to eighty thousand people, and a great proportion of them are foreigners. Mr. Stern has given an illustration of what the Blankenberg administration did a year or so with regarding to placing the police at the polls. We have had a new mayor elected since that time, and he is using the police in politics. At the last primary election he canvassed certain wards in the City of Philadelphia with police and firemen, intimidating those foreigners to such an extent that upon going to the registration board they attempted to have the names of seven thousand people stricken off. In certain wards where it did not please the police to go they did not strike off any names. In my ward they attempted to cut off seven hundred names. When they went before the board of registration I think they struck off forty-three. In my adjoining ward where they possibly could have found as many as in my ward, and possibly more, no return was made for the striking off of any names, and that is the way they are using the policemen and firemen, and I hope this bill will pass this House.

Mr. WELLS. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, it is rather peculiar at this particular time that a bill of this character should be presented to the members of this House. If this bill is a good bill and is necessary for the citizens to have passed, I fail to understand why it does not include all of the municipalities within this State. I wonder whether the members of the House have read the provisions of this bill with care? It provides: "No such officer, member or employe of said department or bureau shall serve as a member of or attend the meetings of any committee of any political party or take any active part in any political management or in political campaigns or canvassing political precincts or use his office to influence political movements or influence the political action of any other such officer, member or employe," and provides a penalty. If this act is violated the officer or fireman shall be liable to serve three months in prison to one year and shall, during a period of five years thereafter, be disqualified from holding office.

Why, gentlemen, if a policeman or a fireman sits at the police station or fire station, or fire house, if he should discuss a political issue with his next door neighbor or a question that would come before the people at the next election, that might be interpreted as a violation of the act for which the man might be liable to go to prison for three months or one year, and be disqualified from holding office, during a period of five years. I take it that American citizens are free and are very proud of the right of free speech. It was granted to them when this country was made free; this is a right they are jealous of and of which they are very proud of as one of the greatest rights of all. The greatest right in regard to free speech is the right that every free American citizen has to discuss the political issues of the day. It is discussed not only by the millionaire but by the poor man; by the blacksmith and the stock broker, and there is no reason, in my mind, why a police officer or a fireman should be singled out among the great masses of citizens because of his particular employment and that he should be forever disqualified to discuss the issues of the day, and for this reason I am opposed to it.

Mr. BEYER. Mr. Speaker, this bill is in the interest of the good people of our city who do not take what may be called an active part in politics. I know that the average man who becomes active in his precinct welcomes the assistance of any man at the poles, whether he is a fireman or a policeman, but I also know that in a great city like Philadelphia where the police and firemen run into thousands that it is one vast army in the possession of the executive of the city which with the brute force referred to a moment ago can be made a most formidable weapon in destroying the will of the people. I say to you now that this it not only in the interest of the people who want a free ballot and an equal opportunity of exercising their franchise without intimidation by policemen and police clubs, but it is also in the interest of those men who are members of the police and fire department of the City of Philadelphia. Many and many a policeman has come to me and talked of these matters and I know they have talked with each other and have gone to their people and complained about orders that they got to turn in for a certain ticket or turn against a certain ticket. That means that the police lieutenant in a police district gives orders from his desk in the station house and intimates what is going to happen to them if they don't do it and show by the results in their election precincts that they have done it. Such efforts as these are entirely destructive of a democratic idea of government in which people are free and independent. In a district such as I represent it makes no great difference whether you pass this bill or whether you don't, because the element referred to by my colleague from Philadelphia does not prevail in the district that I have the honor to represent here, but in those districts where it does prevail we have this condition of affairs. There is not a shopkeeper that is not to some extent under the control of the police system of the city. He is told that if he don't turn in on a certain ticket and support a certain ticket on election day, certain privileges will be taken from him, such as sidewalk privileges, as for instance a little counter on the sidewalk will be taken away from him and he will be arrested perhaps and every little excuse that can be found to harrass and annoy him is used by the policeman, and not only by the little officer of the precinct but by the lieutenant of the district, at times, even by the Chief of the Department in the City of Philadelphia. I say, therefore, that there is nothing in this bill that a man cannot support, that is not in the interest of honest government. There is everything in it that commends it. Why, talk about the right of free speech—a police officer is not denied the rights to talk to his neighbors or his friends from time to time about the political condition in the city in which he lives or the ward in which he may reside, but it is a long step from talking to your neighbors and going out and ringing door bells and bringing voters by the neck into the polling places and marking their ballots or sitting in the polling place and seeing the returns made out. All this is the abuse which a bill of this character seeks to remedy. I take it for granted that it is but one step further than the Shern Bill. This is putting the teeth into the Shern Bill, which provides that if an employe, police officer or fireman becomes active in politics, it is the duty of his superior to summon him and remove him because of that pernicious activity. But we find that they don't do it. Therefore, we have here a penalty provided which puts into the hands of the citizens the right to go into court and secure justice and present an indictment against him who transgresses the law and see that justice is done. This bill should be supported because it is in the interest of honest government and fair play and for all citizens, and supplies a most gigantic relief for the policemen and firemen themselves.

Mr. HECHT. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I yield to no man in our desire to give to the people of not only the City of Philadelphia but of the State of Pennsylvania the enactment of such laws which will best preserve law and order and this morning we have under discussion a bill which particularly relates to the City of Philadelphia. We have heard some very interesting talks from my distinguished colleagues from Philadelphia, but, gentlemen, we are not here at this time in the interest of anything that pertains to partisan or factional politics. We must have our eyes solely and wholely upon that which will be for the best good of all the citizens of the City of Philadelphia, regardless of politics. It is my pleasure and honor to come from the district in which resides the present chief executive of the City of Philadelphia. I bespeak for him this: His desire to do that which is best for the people of the City of Philadelphia. In my district up there we have seen that there is no disorder and undue interference on the part of any policeman representing the City of Philadelphia but that is not the issue at this time. You have before you here, gentlemen not representing the City of Philadelphia but representing the other sections of the State of Pennsylvania, a bill which you are asked to enact into a law. It is either a proper bill or it is such a bill as should not deserve your vote.

I am going to briefly say that the very argument made by my distinguished friend and colleague, from Philadelphia, Mr. Beyer, is the very reason why you should not vote for this bill. He says it puts teeth in the bill and it gives the right to any citizen to go into court and prefer an indictment for any violation of the act. Now what is any violation of the act proposed here? In part this bill says, a man shall not attend or take any active part in any political discussion, management or campaign. I ask you, as fairminded men, whether that could not be construed to affect a policeman who merely expresses his preference for a candidate if that is not activity by his mere expression of preference. But further than that, it says this, and here is a drastic piece of legislation—that the policemen or firemen shall not be in a voting booth except "save only for the purpose of marking and depositing his ballot as speedily as it reasonably can be done." Why, that gives a chance for any man opposed in a political campaign to say that John Jones was in the ballot booth for twenty minutes when he should not have been there more than three minutes to deposit his ballot in the ballot box. It raises an issue; it gives the man the right to go in and present an indictment. My friend on the left and my colleague sitting alongside of me, discussed this bill this morning simply from an impartial standpoint. I do not care anything about partisan politics so far as it relates to my duty as a member of this Assembly and I yield to no man in my desire to give every fireman and every policeman in the City of Philadelphia and the State of Pennsylvania the best that will protect him, his home and his happiness. But it puts the policemen and firemen in a bad position. Take their situation under this bill. No man should be accused or subject to a criminal charge because he is in a voting booth for more than five minutes, or longer, for good reason. Yet such could be the case under this bill. And again it says, that he can only be in the booth for the purpose of depositing his ballot and that he shall not be within fifty feet during the entire day, and it provides a drastic penalty for any violation thereof. Gentlemen, as representing the City of Philadelphia, I trust that you as my colleagues in the House, from other sections of the State, will construe this bill strictly. You will find it is too drastic, particularly from the standpoint of the interests of the firemen and policemen. I hope it will not pass in its present form.

Mr. MILNER. Mr. Speaker, I believe that if this House should pass this bill it would be a disastrous step backward. We all know that when this country was founded it was dedicated to the principle that all men are born free and equal and it has been a truism in American Political Science that this meant political freedom, and, Mr. Chairman, political rights have stood from the time of King John until yesterday when the throne was taken from the Czar and we have all stood for political liberty for man. This bill strikes at the political liberty of certain members of the body politic in Pennsylvania. It seems to me that the policeman or fireman has the same right to take his part if he so chooses, without using undue influence, in political campaigns, as any other man, whether he be a member of this House, a banker or drayman. Now the best form of body politics in government is the one in which all men take an active part, and no man because of his position should be excluded from that part. Furthermore, we have already, through this House, passed a law which adequately covers this subject. Since the passage of the act of 1906, the Shern Law, it has been a truism in Philadelphia politics that the best way to get a man out of politics was to put him on the police force or in a fire house or make him a tipstaff of the court and then he ceased to be of any political use. Now, if Mr. Stern found a man in his polling booth who wore a policeman's uniform he had the privilege under the Shern Act to have that man dismissed from service by bringing a proper complaint against him, and if anyone finds a policeman taking a political part in Philadelphia politics they have the right to have him dismissed. This act has been covered as drastically as it should be under the provisions of the Shern Act which reads that:

"No officer, clerk or employe of any city of the first class, or of any department, trust or commission thereof, shall be a member of or delegate or alternate to, any political convention, nor shall he be present at any such convention except in the performance of his official duty. No officer, clerk or employe of any city of the first class, or of any department, trust or commission thereof, shall serve as a member of or attend the meetings of any committee of any political party, or take an active part in political management or in political campaigns, or use his office to influence political movements, or influence the political action of any other officer, clerk or employe of any such city, department, trust or commission."

And it provides that if he violates the provisions of this act he shall be dismissed from service, and it seems to me that punishment is in keeping with the offense that he has committed, if we agree that this is an offense. But to say that he shall be shorn of most of his political attributes, that he shall not hold any position or office of trust in this Commonwealth for five years, as if he had committed treason, is going too far, and I believe that this law is too drastic and un-American.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. Speaker, after hearing the remarks of some of my learned colleagues I am persuaded that the words of the old proverb are extremely applicable, "that the law is a terror to evil doers and not to those who do well."

It has been shown here today that some of the foreign population in Philadelphia are very much opposed to the police force because the police force and the firemen are charged with intimidating them; but the reason, I believe, from some small examination of the subject, is due to the fact that those who are intimidated are breaking the law themselves. They are permitted, under our laws, to have counters outside their doors to the extent of four feet six inches; some of them take five feet and the police officers, following the words of the Scripture, which says, "of those things the Lord winked at"; he winks like the Lord at certain things and he winks at this small breach of the law. Now then the time comes when the police officer is forbidden that which by the Anglo-Saxon system of government is given him, the right of free speech, and when the police officer is prohibited from reading the sentence on the Liberty Bell, "Proclaim liberty throughout all the land and to all the inhabitants thereof", and he is not permitted to talk to his neighbor on any political subject without the charge being made against him that he is an infringer of the law.

I know very well when I lived in the downtown district that it was a wise thing for the police to canvass all the wards. I recollect, when living downtown, there was one house of which it was said that the beds were never cold. They had six beds and twelve colored fellows slept in them all night and when they got up and went to work twelve others slept in them in daytime. It would be easy, from an improper standpoint, to shift these beds and instead of having John Johnson sleep there it will be Bill Sweeney or some other gentleman, so that it became necessary in order to protect the polls and the registration lists that those polls be carefully watched and guarded and for that purpose only the canvass is made to which reference has been made by one of the gentlemen from Philadelphia.

I am further informed that the police have been given orders at times from their predecessors and therefore it is presumed that having been given orders they will obey them. Gentlemen of the House, you and I both know that we care not who the commanding officer of any organization is if that man gives us an order to disobey or break the law we have no right and we are not expected to obey it. I therefore contend and submit to you that if the Director of Public Safety, if the Mayor of Philadelphia, if the Chief of the Fire Department, in the City of Philadelphia, should say to the policemen or firemen or any officer of that force, "you go down there into such and such a district and tell that fellow that if he don't support the Republican Party of the Reform Ticket we will close him up;" I submit to you that that police officer has a perfect right under the law, and he should do so, to say, "Sir, I am a police officer; I am not here to obey political orders;" and if he takes that stand, give him all the law in this Commonwealth. He would not be brought up for trial because the people of Philadelphia would be quickly advised through their great newspaper system of that infraction and that chief of police or whomsoever the officer is would be called to account and forced to resign. But, gentlemen, there is one statement in this bill alone that will prohibit me from voting for it. A policeman and a fireman has as much right to vote as I have or you and when you go to the polls to do your duty as a citizen you are not charged with interfering with the voting, but yet this bill says that a police officer or a fireman if he goes to the polls he interferes with the polls.

I refer, gentlemen, to page two of the bill, line ten, "Nor shall he," that is a fireman or a policeman, "in any way or manner interfere with the conduct of any election." Coming down now to line fifteen, "Save only for the purpose of marking and depositing his ballot as speedily as it reasonably can be done." In other words he interferes, under the statement of this act, with that which we do not interfere with, and he interferes merely because he is a police officer or a fireman. Gentlemen, your experience teaches you that policemen and firemen have as good hearts in them as any man that steps the earth in this Commonwealth, and why should we want to start in now and legislate against them when the Shern act takes particular care to see that the very things that are prohibited in this act are covered within reasonable limits. Gentlemen, therefore, I suggest to you that this act ought to be at this time defeated.

One more reason why I am not in favor of it. At the last session of this General Assembly, an act almost similar to this act was submitted. It passed both Houses and was sent into the Governor's office. It was vetoed there. Can you expect that he will approve an act which has nothing in it to benefit anyone. We are at the request of the Speaker examining very carefully every bill submitted to us, and we have also been requested by those persons who have sent us here to put on the staute books no unnecessary legislation. Gentlemen, this act would be unnecessary. If we will examine the decisions of the Appellate Court on the question of the Shern Act, you will find that the ground has been fully covered. Another thing, there is nothing in this act to prohibit a slight amendment being made sending this act broadcast into your communities, and into your municipalities. If you will read the title of this act, you will find that by taking out a few words, this act can be made Statewide, and I doubt if any man in this House is willing to say that the police officers, or the constables and firemen in his district are such a bunch of crooks that they have to be specially guarded against.

Mr. STERN. Mr. Speaker. I want to say in favor of this bill and against the arguments that were made in opposition to it, that it was my privilege some three weeks ago to introduce into this House and to see it finally pass in this House, and it is now on its road to the Senate, a bill known as the "Two Platoon Bill," for the firemen. No more humane piece of legislation was ever passed in this House. I only say this, Mr. Speaker, and gentlemen of the House, to show that there is no ill feeling in my mind against either the policemen or the firemen. I want to show to you my fair-mindedness. I want to say in answer to the gentleman from Philadelphia, who asks why I did not report the fact that the police were on top of the ballot boxes. I know that that was a fact, and it cannot be denied, in the last election which resulted in the election of the present mayor of Philadelphia. I want to say that I did report that, but when you find that the head of the department is of the same mind and of the same opinion as the subordinate officers of the force, they have to do certain things and it does very little good to go to the head of the department and make any complaint. There is no use of making any complaint when those complaints are not heeded. I certainly believe in the equality of man. We believe that everybody has equal rights, and that they are born equal, but no man is born a policeman, and no man has the authority to stand on a ballot box and prevent other people from voting. This bill ought to be passed unanimously. It is significant, Mr. Speaker, and gentlemen, that almost all the opposition to this bill comes from the gentlemen who are allied closely with the present administration in the City of Philadelphia and it raises a question of doubt in my mind as to whether or not the opposition to this bill is not the effort and the purpose of the present administration in the City of Philadelphia to again domineer the election that is coming in September of this year, and have clubs trumps as they have had in the past, and it is to prevent that that we ask you to vote for this bill.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit me to interrogate him?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Stern, permit himself to be interrogated

Mr. STERN. Mr. Speaker, yes sir.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. Speaker, is it not true that that which you complain of most occurred in the previous administration?

Mr. STERN. Mr. Speaker, it occurred in both administrations.

Mr. McNICHOL. What election did it occur in, in the present administration?

Mr. STERN. The primary election, Mr. Speaker, when nominations were made for members of the Legislature of this House, in the Thirteenth and Fourteenth wards.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman was a candidate for nomination?

Mr. STERN. Mr. Speaker, I was, and the police were against me.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. Speaker, and yet the gentleman was returned by over twenty-five hundred majority?

Mr. STERN. Mr. Speaker, that was not the fault of the police, it was my fault.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. Speaker, then the police could not have been very active.

Mr. STITES. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, when there are introduced into this Assembly bills of a serious character we speak of them at the time as "legislative tragedies." This particular measure this morning, however, bears a very different phase, and we will speak of it, therefore, as a "legislative comedy." I congratulate the gentlemen who sit on the left side of this House, the Democratic members, at the prospect they have this morning, as they have had on other mornings. Gentlemen on the Democratic side, this morning is Republican washday in the City of Philadelphia. There have been other washdays, but this is a particularly interesting washday. If I sat on the Democratic side of this House, gentlemen, it seems to me that I would hurt myself laughing. I should think the Democratic donkey would lie on his back, put his heels in the air and make the air melodious with his brays.

Now, what is the situation with regard to this particular bill. It is the time old story of the outs being in, and the ins being out. In days gone by, when the particular faction was in in the City of Philadelphia, that now appears to be out of power, you gentlemen heard nothing about unseemly activity which was recently referred to by my distinguished friend, the gentleman from the Third Ward of the City of Philadelphia. Unseemly activity in those days was a thing to be conjured with. When the particular faction was in power, represented by my distinguished friend from the Third Ward,—

Mr. STERN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. STERN. Mr. Speaker, I dislike very much to be referred to as coming from the Third Ward. I come from the Fifth Ward, where the Declaration of Independence was signed.

Mr. STITES. Mr. Speaker, I congratulate the gentleman upon his ancient association. But in that connection it makes me think of an old man who lived in my home town, Cape May. Some years ago he went to the City of Philadelphia and took his old wife with him, and registered at the Bellevue-Stratford. He had never been there before. He went up and registered, looked over the strange things, and finally went down and sat at the dinner table. He picked up the menu and looked over the list, and he saw among other things this: "Ox tail soup." He said to his wife, "Maria, listen to this: Ox tail soup—ox tail soup. Maria, ain't that going back pretty far for soup?"

So when my distinguished friend from the fifth ward calls upon the shades of the Declaration of Independence to give lustre to him, it seems to me he is going very far back for soup. But what I am about to say with regard to the conduct of elections in his particular section in days gone by make him think that the days of George Washington are not here now. For instance, same years ago in that particular district some of the Republican majorities—I hope you Democratic gentlemen will listen to this—were at times one hundred and five per cent of the registered vote in the ward. And what was the result? Good thinking citizens of the City of Philadelphia got together and decided that that condition ought to be changed, and so they formed the Committee of Seventy, which became notorious in the City of Philadelphia because of the number of arrests made by the Committee of Seventy, and that at a time, gentlemen, when that particular faction was in power that does not now happen to be in power. These gentlemen refer to unseemly political activity now, because that political activity happens to be made by somebody now representing the other side of the house. When the political activity happened to be made in their interest it was a good thing, but they do not think so now.

Let me again refer to my boyhood home. On the farm next to us lived an old man named Wilden, who had a boy who was very clever at riding horses. The old man was very clever in training them, and made a great deal of money out of them. One day when young Ike Wilden came around the house he saw his father on the front grass plot talking to two men. They had a horse there, and the boy had never seen it before. As he came up to them his father said, "Ike, jump on the horse and show us what he can do." As the boy went around behind his father, he said quietly, "Pop, are you buying or selling?" It was going to make a whole lot of difference in the action of the horse whether he was buying or selling. Now, gentlemen, you have the prospective this morning, and the gentlemen who are in favor of this measure now are engaged in buying, and when they were engaged in selling it did not seem so important. Now you may ask me why I am so excited about this. It is true that I am not awakened in the morning by the rattle of the ash can on the front pavement. The only sounds which greet me in the morning are the whistle of the flicker, the chirp of the robin and the hop of the blue bird. In the springtime in my district I am charmed with the crocus coming out of the ground; in June I am charmed by the nodding heads of the Annunciation lillies; in July with the most beautiful colors of the hollyhock, and I am not at all interested in the question of how much activity the police have; but you men from the country districts and from the Democratic side of the House ought to know the truth, and that is this: There has been during the past two or three years less political activity and trouble with the police and firemen from that source than for a great number of years. The City of Philadelphia has had the safeguard of publicly interested people, wealthy, influential and patriotic men known as the Committee of Seventy, who have made arrests for the violation of the election laws, and during the past year or two there have been less arrests by far than for many years past. I am not interested in this factional squabble in Philadelphia, but I am interested in this, that the truth shall be known and that you and I from the country districts shall not be fooled by political fakes, and you gentlemen should look into it. This bill ought to be defeated. Why? Because it has no possible sincerity in it, but was introduced through factional motives and bears upon its face the stamp of hypocricy. If you and I act from conscientious motive we cannot support it.

Mr. BEYER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Montgomery.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Montgomery permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. STITES. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. BEYER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know whether the gentleman can tell this House who was responsible for the enactment of the Shern Law of 1905.

Mr. STITES. Mr. Speaker, I think the proper answer to that is that that law was the result of outraged public sentiment.

Mr. BEYER. I would like to ask the gentleman if he can tell this House whether or not the Committee of Seventy about which he spoke is in favor of this bill or against it.

Mr. STITES. I have no idea.

Mr. BEYER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to state that so far as I know the Committee of Seventy stands solidly behind this bill.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered. That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed it with amendments, in which the concurrence of the Senate is requested.

MOTION TO RECONSIDER VOTE.

Mr. COOK. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which House Bill No. 225, File Folio 875, entitled

An Act requiring that the proper officers of every county, city borough or township of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania be notified of any injury sustained by any person or persons either in property or person upon any property owned by the said county, city, borough or township or road, street or highway within the said county, city, borough or township and providing that no recovery may be had on any action for damages arising therefrom in the event of failure to give such notification.

passed finally this morning be reconsidered.

Mr. MITCHELL. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

POINT OF ORDER.

Mr. SIMPSON. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. SIMPSON. Mr. Speaker, the point of order is, that the bill has already passed the House and been referred to the Senate for concurrence and is no longer the property of the House.

The SPEAKER. The Chair would ask the Clerk if the bill is in the possession of the House.

The Clerk advised the Speaker that the bill is not in possession of the House and therefore the motion of the gentleman from York is not in order. The point of order is well taken.

Mr. WALLACE. Mr. Speaker, I would respectfully appeal from the decision of the Chair.

Mr. MITCHELL. Mr. Speaker, I second the appeal.

Mr. WALLACE. Mr. Speaker, I find in the decisions of the House on page 1079 of Smull's Legislative Hand Book a decision of the Speaker which I believe is fairly on this point: The motion being made by the gentleman who voted affirmatively and seconded by one who voted the same way. According to this decision, "Mr. Skinner submitted the point of order that House Bill No. 297 having passed the House finally, and being now in possession of the Senate, no further action can be taken upon the pending motion to reconsider until the bill itself has been returned from the Senate to the House. The Speaker Pro Tempore (Mr. Burdick) decided the point of order not well taken, that a motion to reconsider if made on the day the bill passes, or within the proper time, though the bill had gone to the Senate, is in order."

I think that rules the question fairly and squarely and rules this point of order.

The SPEAKER. The rules of the House have been amended since that decision has been made.

Mr. WALLACE. Mr. Speaker, not on that point, on investigation of the present rules.

The SPEAKER. The Chair would differ from the gentleman.

Does the gentleman appeal from the decision of the Chair?

Mr. WALLACE. I do, Mr. Speaker.

SPEAKER BALDWIN IN THE CHAIR.

Mr. WALLACE. Mr. Speaker, in further support of the motion, in the rules of 1915, which are still in force in this House, in Rule 23 we have the following:

"A motion for reconsideration shall be permitted, when made and seconded by members who were in the majority on the original question, and within five days in which the House is in session after the decision, excepting when a bill or resolution shall have been recalled from the Governor, in which case a motion to reconsider shall be entertained though more than five days shall have elapsed. When a motion to reconsider is lost, it shall not be again renewed on the same question."

The SPEAKER. I think if the gentleman from Lawrence examines that rule he will find it only refers to a defeated bill and a defeated bill, of course, is still in the possession of the House.

I would like to ask the gentleman if he can inform the House what the rules of the House were in 1865, when the decision which he has quoted was rendered.

Mr. WALLACE. Mr. Speaker, as far as I have been able to learn they are the same on this particular point as the present rule.

The SPEAKER. I would like to know whether the gentleman is satisfied that that is the rule at this time.

Mr. WALLACE. Mr. Speaker, I am satisfied in my own mind.

The SPEAKER. The question is on the appeal from the decision of the Speaker Pro Tem on the point of order raised by the gentleman from Pittsburgh, Mr. Simpson, the bill having passed out of the possession of the House, whether the House has the power to consider a bill or a matter that is not before the House and not in possession of the House; whether you will sustain the decision of the Speaker Pro Tempore.

On the question,

Will the House sustain the decision of the Speaker Pro Tempore?

The question was decided in the affirmative and the decision sustained.

MR. FLYNN IN THE CHAIR.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 336 (Senate Bill No. 49), entitled

An Act to authorize and require the County Commissioners of the several counties of this Commonwealth to furnish a room for the judges learned in the law of the Courts of Common Pleas and Orphans' Courts.

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?
It was agreed to.
On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SHOWALTER. Mr. Speaker, this bill provides that the County Commissioners are to furnish an office for a judge, be it in the court house or in some other place. Now, "furnishing" is a relative term. It may mean equipping it with a library for the judge, a typewriter, and all of the paraphernalia that goes with an office. In some of the smaller interior counties we feel that there is no necessity for a bill of this character, yet I do not wish to oppose it without having had some communication or conference with the sponsor, and in order that I may have a chance to talk it over with him I wish to ask that this bill be postponed for the present.

The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman wish to make a motion that the vote by which the bill passed third reading be reconsidered?

MOTION TO RECONSIDER VOTE.

Mr. SHOWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which House Bill No. 336 (Senate Bill No. 49), passed third reading be reconsidered.

Mr. BIDELSPACHER. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

THURSDAY, March 22, 1917.

The House met at 10 o'clock A. M.
The SPEAKER (Richard J. Baldwin) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. S. G. Zerfass, offered the following prayer:

O God our Heavenly Father,—We cannot go into this day without Thy blessing. Keep us from being so absorbed in our own plans that we do not accept Thy plan and do Thy will.

We pray Thee to give us grace to live to-day as we should and avoid temptations that loom up everywhere.

Help us to be honest, to be thoughtful, to be kind to all we meet and a strength to many.

Wilt Thou bless all of our work to-day, for without Thy benediction there can be no true prosperity. As earth's flowers need heaven's sun and rain, so our lives need heaven's grace and love to make them what they should be.

Breathe on us now whilst we pray and give us the Holy Spirit as we go forth.

We ask all these favors with the forgiveness of our sins in the name of Jesus Christ. Amen.

RESOLUTION AMENDING RULE NO. 39.

Mr. FITZGIBBON offered the following resolution and asked and received unanimous consent for its immediate consideration, the resolution being twice read as follows:

Resolved, That House Rule number thirty-nine be amended to read as follows:

39. None but members of the Senate, their officers, the Governor and heads of State Department, judges of the courts of this Commonwealth, the members of their families and families of the members of the present House and Senate, former members of the Legislature, when introduced by a member of the present House, and others who may be specially introduced by a member, by permission of the Speaker, shall be permitted to come upon the floor of the House during its session; and no person, not a member of the Legislature, shall be permitted to come upon the floor of the House, or sit in any seats appropriated for the members, or interrupt a member by speaking to him in his seat, while the House is in session; and it shall be the duty of the sergeant-at-arms or doorkeeper to give notice to any person offending against this rule.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from McKean County explain wherein it changes the present rule?

Mr. FITZGIBBON. Mr. Speaker, the only change is to amend Rule 39 giving the families of the members of the present House and Senate the privilege of the floor.

Mr. FOWLER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of information.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of information.

Mr. FOWLER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask for a point of information. It says here, "and others who may be specially introduced by a member, by permission of the Speaker." Will that give the right to any member to ask permission from the Chair to bring any brother in here?

The SPEAKER. Under the amendment suggested or presented to the House by the gentleman from McKean, the members of the family of any member of this House shall have the privilege of the floor. The rule is only changed to the extent of permitting the members of the families of the members of the Senate and the House.

Mr. FOWLER. Mr. Speaker, I am asking whether the rule now will not permit me as a member of this House to obtain permission from the Chair to bring any friend in here.

The SPEAKER. The rule speaks very plainly for itself.

Mr. FOWLER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to have the Chair interpret that further as to whether or not with permission I may bring a friend in.

The SPEAKER. The rule of the House provides that if any member of the House desires to bring a friend on the floor of the House he can do so with the consent of the Speaker, and if I understand the rule correctly he may do so. The rule really speaks so plainly that I do not see how there can be any other interpretation taken of it.

Mr. REITZEL. Mr. Speaker, in view of the fact that we have a Rules Committee, if there are any changes to be made in the rule, it seems to me that it would be wise and expedient to refer that resolution or any contemplated to the Committee on Rules.

The SPEAKER. For the information of the gentleman from Lancaster the Chair desires to say that when this resolution was presented and unanimous consent asked for immediate consideration there were no objections from any source. The gentleman can amend the resolution, or should he desire to make a motion the Chair will entertain it.

Mr. REITZEL. Mr. Speaker, I move you that this resolution be referred to the Committee on Rules.

Mr. RININGER. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was adopted.

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That an act approved the fifth day of May one thousand nine hundred eleven (Pamphlet Laws one hundred ninety-four) entitled "An Act to amend the first section of an act approved the tenth day of May Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and seven entitled 'An Act to fix the salaries of the clerk deputy clerk court clerks and employes in the office of the clerk of court of oyer and terminer and quarter sessions of the peace of any county of this Commonwealth having a population of one million or over' so as to make it apply to counties having a population of one million four hundred thousand or over" which reads as follows

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. Speaker, this bill is probably misleading in its title and I wish to explain that it is not a general salary raiser as it affects only the salaries of three men At the last session of the Legislature the Chief Clerks of three courts of quarter sessions were raised to three thousand dollars and the Assistants Clerks to two thousand dollars. This is an increase of these three officials only, and that salary is paid out of the office fees and, therefore, is not a general salary raiser.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

In case of a vacancy in said office the court of quarter sessions or any judge of the said court of the same county shall appoint a person to fill such vacancy

All acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith be and the same are hereby repealed

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. WILLIAM DAVIS. Mr. Speaker, may we ask the sponsor of this bill for a word of explanation about the changes proposed?

Mr. SARIG. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, all that this bill calls for, all the change that it makes in the present law, is that it changes the term of the Registry Assessor from two to four years. It is really the same as the Real Estate Assessor with the exception of assessing real estate. In districts where there is only one voting precinct the real estate assessor does all the work and there is no registry assessor, but in districts where there is more than one voting precinct they have a separate assessor known as a registry assessor and this registry assessor just now has a term of only two years, whereas the real estate assessor and practically all the other township officials have a term of either four or six years, and this bill simply brings the term of the registry assessor in line with the idea of economy and efficiency.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

PETITION PRAYING FOR THE PASSAGE OF THE BILL NOW BEFORE THE SENATE ENABLING THE COUNCILS OF PHILADELPHIA TO PURCHASE FOODSTUFFS AND SELL THE SAME TO THE PEOPLE WITHOUT PROFIT TO THE CITY.

The Chair presented the following communication from the Investigating Committee of the Mayor's Food Commission of Philadelphia:

Philadelphia, Pa., March 24, 1917.

President of Senate,
Harrisburg, Pa.

At a meeting of the Investigating Committee of the Mayor's Food Commission, held this afternoon, it was unanimously resolved to urge upon the Senate of Pennsylvania and Governor Brumbaugh the absolute necessity for the immediate enactment of the bill now before the Senate enabling the councils of Philadelphia to purchase foodstuffs and sell the same to the people without profit to the city.

JAMES LENNAN,
Chairman.

Which was referred to the Committee on Municipal Affairs.

Mr. McKEE asked and obtained leave of absence for the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Burke.

The CHAIR asked and obtained leave of absence for the Senator from Venango, Mr. Phipps, on account of absence as a witness in the United States Court at Erie.

COMMUNICATIONS FROM THE GOVERNOR.

The Chair cleared his table and laid before the Senate communications in writing from His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, filed with the Chief Clerk during the interim, which were read as follows:

VETO OF SENATE BILL NO. 5.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, March 23, 1917.

To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen: I return herewith, without my approval, Senate Bill No. 5, entitled "An Act requiring counties having a population of over one million and less than one million five hundred thousand to establish a pension fund for the employes of such counties and providing for the administration of such fund and payments therefrom.' '

This Bill is to replace an act approved May 11, 1915, which act was represented to the Executive as meeting fully the requirements of the case in the county concerned. Until now the act seems to be doing well. This bill is so wide in its scope, and opens the way for such accidental admissions and withdrawal of beneficiaries as to make it inevitable that its provisions will in the near future impair the fund and defeat the essential good it seeks to accomplish.

This bill does not evidence any expert actuarial study of its fiscal plans and will not in my judgment give the nearly worthy beneficiaries the relief they should have. No pension system should hold any promise it cannot assuredly keep. Were the provisions so modified as to make it a practical and dependable service it would be approved.

For these reasons this bill is not approved.

MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass, the objections of the Governor to the contrary notwithstanding?

Mr. SPROUL. Mr. President, in the absence of the Senator from Allegheny, who introduced this bill, I move that the question, together with the further consideration of the bill, be postponed for the present.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

VETO OF SENATE BILL NO. 37.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, March 23, 1917.

To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen: I return herewith without my approval Senate Bill No. 37, entitled "An Act to amend section five of an act approved the twenty-fourth day of July Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and thirteen (Pamphlet Laws ten hundred eighteen), entitled 'An Act making it unlawful for the commissioners of any county in this Commonwealth to contract to repair build or rebuild any county bridges without due advertisement for sealed proposals excepting contracts not amounting to two hundred and fifty dollars' by excepting contracts for the repair building or re-building of any bridge or bridges that will cost less than five hundred dollars."

This bill makes it lawful for County Commissioners to enter into contracts for repairing, building, or re-building bridges without due advertisement when such work costs less than five hundred ($500) dollars. The act of July 24, 1913, gives this power to County Commissioners only when the cost is less than two hundred and fifty ($250) dollars.

The trend of all modern accounting of public monies and the expenditure of the same is unmistakably to a more detailed and more open treatment of public expenditures. The concensus of opinion is to let the people know. When over two hundred and fifty ($250) dollars of county funds is to be expended it is well that competitive bids be received and the people given full knowledge of the transaction. This can work no injustice, and can do no harm. The absence of such public treatment of the transaction might work harm. It is well to be on the safe side of the proposition. The law now works no hardship known to the Executive. It is in harmony with the best principles of popular government.

For these reasons this bill is not approved.

MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass, the objections of the Governor to the contrary notwithstanding?

Mr. EYRE. Mr. President, I move that the question, together with the further consideration of the bill, be postponed for the present.

Mr. W. P. GRAFF. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

On the question,
Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. C. A. SNYDER. Mr. President, I desire to ask unanimous consent to amend this bill. I do not have the amendment prepared because I want to give my reasons first and then I will send the amendment to the desk.

The PRESIDENT. Is there any objection to the Senator from Schuylkill proceeding at this time?

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I object.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair hears objection.

Mr. C. A. SNYDER. Mr. President, If the Senator objects I will be compelled to vote against the bill. If he lets me say what I would like to say I am convinced he will change his mind.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I have no objection to the Senator's explanation.

Mr. C. A. SNYDER. Mr. President, I have no objection to the State Police. When the bill was first presented in 1903, to establish the State Police, since my name was one of the last on the roll to be called, when the very life of the institution of this constabulary was threatened, or the institution of it was threatened, I voted in favor of the State Police. I have regularly, at every session, when there has been an attempt to improve the State Police, or increase it, when I had opportunity, voted for the State Police. I submit to the Senate of Pennsylvania that I believe that the importance of the State Police will not be recognized to be stronger at any time than now, especially when the National Guard may be called away and be away from the State, or employed in other duties for a period of time, and when there may be disturbance throughout the Commonwealth, and they may be called upon to pacify whatever section in which they are needed and the strong hand is required to do so, I think it is important that the State Police should be continued and be increased. It is not my purpose to vote against this bill but I believe there is objection to the bill which will perhaps cause its defeat especially because of the increase of the salaries of the head officers. My objection is not a personal one. It is based upon the proposition that the salary of the chief officer, who is in charge of two hundred and forty men, who shall be paid under this bill six thousand dollars, the four captains shall be paid $2520, making in all $16,000, for the purpose of controlling three hundred and twenty men. The salary of the chief of the constabulary of $6,000 per year will be more than that of a major general of the United States army, who has charge of thirty thousand troops; it will be more than the salary of a brigadier general. In view of the fact, however, coming back to the major-generalship, I believe his salary with all his maintenance being furnished to him, is about $7,000, and he must be in the field continually day after day in charge of thirty thousand men. The Chief of the State Police lives in Philadelphia, he is not in charge every day, he does not give such service that the State should pay $6,000, in my opinion, and it does strike me that members of the Senate, men whose business it is to see that no extravagant salaries are paid nor encourage extravagant salaries in any department, should consider well before paying $6,000 to the head of a department that has but three hundred twenty men under his control, if this bill should become a law. The captains of the State Police, four of them, will get $2520. Now it does strike me that this is an extravagant and improvident salary for the services performed. I know the argument is made that the head of the constabulary is an efficient man. That is granted; there is no question about that; but the Adjutant General of Pennsylvania, who has been in charge of the State Militia for a number of years, has rendered great service, and is here daily, gets no more, and it does seem to me there is no reason given, no cause assigned why this salary of the Chief of the Constabulary should be $6,000. Why it should be made at this time I do not know except that it may be considered an opportune moment to pass this bill, which could not be passed at any other time. Now I am not arguing against the protests which are filed against the State Police. They may be meritorious from some points of view, but from my point of view I cannot maintain them and will not try to maintain the opposition, but I do think the promoter and proposer of this bill should give it consideration and should agree that the salaries should be amended so that they shall be commensurate with the services rendered by the officers who command these State Police. You can readily reckon how much it would cost to govern each man at $16,000, 320 men to be supervised by four captains and one chief. But the argument is made that no one else could be found who is so efficient. I answer that by saying that if in this great crisis, when we are perhaps at the brink of war, if the head of this department should be called hence, the State of Pennsylvania would be in dire distress and therefore $6,000 would not take care of that. That is no argument why this head of the department should be paid this amount of money. I do not intend to vote against the bill. Rather than see it fall, I would vote for it. I do not know anything about the State Police. I might criticize them, and I believe justly, but I do not believe this is the time to do it, because the answer might be made there is a personal element connected with it, which I do not disavow, but I wish to say my objections are not based upon any personal element whatever, but are based entirely upon a sound business reason, that there is no call to pay a man $6,000 to command 320 State Police, who are already under the command of four captains, who are also to receive $2,500 for their services. The men who do the work, the private under this bill, his salary is increased $100. The salary of the officers is increased double. The salary of the private is increased one-eighth. It seems to me the discrimination is unjust and unfair and I ask the promoter of this bill, so that it may be saved, because I will submit that the Chairman of the Appropriations Committee, the element of that position, has a great deal more to do with the passage of this bill than the merits of it, and I trust that we shall not be subject to having the State Police embarrassed, particularly at this time, because some one is unwise enough to try to impose upon the Commonwealth high salaried officers, when there are other officers in this Commonwealth who are giving just as much service and perhaps greater service, at all the time through the year, who are not paid half that salary, and I ask this Senate to consider the proposition to have this bill go back to the committee for the purpose of amendment, or to have the bill amended now, so that we can save the bill from defeat, which I believe it will meet when it comes to be voted upon.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, while I do not understand that there is anything directly before the Senate, inasmuch as the Senator from Schuylkill has seen fit to state his views upon this bill, I shall endeavor to reply to some of them. It seems to me highly inconsistent for the Senator from Schuylkill, who at one election was elected to two offices ——

The PRESIDENT. Does the Senator from Schuylkill desire to offer amendments at this time?

Mr. C. A. SNYDER. Mr. President I do. I want to write them out, and I will listen to the Senator from Bucks, Mr. Buckman.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, as I was about to say, the Senator from Schuylkill was at one election elected to two offices, one of them a member of the Senate of Pennsylvania, the other the Auditor General of Pennsylvania. His salary as a member of the Senate of Pennsylvania is $1,500; his salary as the Auditor General of Pennsylvania is, on its face, $8,000, but in addition to being the Auditor General he is also a member of the Department of Agriculture, a member of the Board of Commissioners of Public Grounds and Buildings, a member of the Military Board, a member of the Sinking Fund Commission, a member of the Board of Health Commissioners, a member of the Board of Public Accounts, a member of the Economy and Effiicency Commission, receiving from those different offices $9,800 per annum and having under his control less than—I am quite safe in saying less—than one-half of the men that will be under the superintendent of the State Police. The superintendent of State Police, created in 1905 and ever since that time, has been receiving a salary of but $3,000 per annum; in 1911 the salaries of the entire police force, consisting of officers and enlisted men, was increased thirty-three and one-third per cent. The Superintendent of Police at that time, in order to save the passage of the bill and not to hinder the enlisted men from receiving an increased salary, withdrew his own amendment by which he would have been receiving a similar percentage of increase of salary and ever since that time he has been receiving but $3,000 per year. Had he received at that time the one-third increase the other men received, he would have been receiving $4,000 per year for the past six years, and this very bill, by increasing the force fifty per cent., raising the number of enlisted men from approximately 200 to 300, it is but fair that he should receive fifty per cent. increase, which, if he had been given $4,000, would now make $6,000. I submit to the Senate, and that seems to be the only question of attack by the Senator from Schuylkill, that this salary is eminently fair, particularly so in view of the great responsibility which devolves upon the Superintendent of this magnificent force. While I do not understand that there has been any amendment offered I hope that if one is offered it will be voted down at this time.

Mr. C. A. SNYDER. Mr. President, I owe an apology to the Senate perhaps for this delay, but the bill was called before I had the amendment prepared and I regret that I am not in a condition of health to reply to the Senator as I ought to. I wish to say this, since reference has been made to the salary of the Auditor General and the State Senator: It is true the Auditor General's salary was created before I had anything to do with it or it might not have been so much; and secondly, the salary of the State Senator never was enough, because a State Senator should not only have more salary, but let me say another thing to the Senator to my left, a Senator should be considered with much more respect than he receives, not only by the head of this department and his deputy, but many other departments and in answer to the Senator permit me to say that he has not given any reason why the salary of the man who only has in charge 320 men should be $6,000. The Auditor General controls and supervises thirty-six or thirty-eight million dollars' expenditures of the State per year and a State Senator votes upon things that are of great importance to this Commonwealth. I do not want to say anything in derogation of the State Police nor its head, that is not my purpose, but I do say it is too much money to pay to the head of the State Police. It is embarrassing to the State and it will paralyze—and I say that advisedly—other departments of government, because there is only one reason why this salary is to be made now and that is because there is a powerful element in the State Senate desires it, not because there is an appeal, and no other chairman in the Senate could put it across, if it is put across, but the Chairman of the Committee on Appropriations.

The amendments were read as follows:

Amend Section 1, lines 9 and 10, by striking out the words and figures "six thousand dollars ($6,000) per annum" and inserting in lieu thereof the words and figures "four thousand five hundred dollars ($4,500) per annum;" also in Section 1, lines 11 and 12, by striking out the words and figures "three thousand five hundred dollars ($3,500) per annum" and inserting in lieu thereof the words and figures "two thousand five hundred dollars ($2,500) per annum;" also on page 2, lines 1 and 2, by striking out the words and figures "twenty-four hundred dollars ($2,400) per annum and inserting in lieu thereof the words and figures "two thousand dollars ($2,000) per annum."

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I object.
